Beck Recalled To Face Many More Charges

Teamster Boss Believed on Skids as President of Union

WASHINGTON (UP) — Beleaguered Dave Beck, possibly on the skids as president of the Teamsters Union, was recalled to the Senate Rackets Committee today to face more than a dozen charges that he misused his power for personal profit.

The once high-riding Teamster boss is being walloped in relays by the committee, the Internal Revenue Service, the AFL-CIO and even his own union.

Today the committee also may take its first crack at elusive Norman Gessert, a cousin of Mrs. Beck.

The committee had been searching for Gessert for weeks along with three other still missing witnesses.

He was subpenaed Tuesday at Ellensburg, Wash., for the second day in a row and ordered to report to the committee immediately for questioning about some of Beck's financial deals. He was scheduled to arrive here from Seattle, Wash., by plane this morning.

Other Witnesses Sought

The committee was almost certain to ask him what he knew of the whereabouts of the other missing witnesses including Dave Beck Jr. They were last reported to be over the Canadian border in Vancouver.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Beck—who invoked the Fifth Amendment 150 times in two earlier appearances — would be asked to explain testimony by a week-long string of witnesses that Beck used the power of his office and his union's multiple millions of dollars to enrich himself and his family.

The charges were capped Wednesday by testimony that Beck and his mysterious crony Nathan Shefferman failed in an effort to charge his own union an extra $71,500 for the Capitol Hill site of his flossy headquarters—but that Shefferman then got a $12,000 bonus from the union for keeping the price down.

The committee said that five weeks later Shefferman paid Beck $8,000.

Shefferman, a management-employed labor expert who admitted paying $85,000 worth of Beck's bills with union funds, testified in March he paid the $8,000 in 1949 simply because Beck was "a generous man, a terrific personality and a very fine gentleman."

Debatable Character Reading

There are some who quarrel with this character reading:

—Beck is under indictment for evading $56,000 1950 income tax and is under investigation for later years.

—The AFL-CIO Executive Council will try him Monday on charges of giving labor a black eye, and also will consider whether to make permanent its temporary suspension of Beck as an AFL-CIO vice president.

—Beck's own union was reported to be considering a recommendation by its public relations firm to dump him as president.

—The Rackets Committee has charged that Beck stole more than 322,000 from Teamster treasuries and that only when income tax investigators got on his trail did he call this a "loan" and begin—through complicated deals with business firms—to replace the money.

'NO' TO $200,000 — Testifying before the Senate's Dave Beck probe in Washington, attorney Alfons B. Landa says he offered Beck $200,000 cash after Beck arranged a $1,500,000 loan to help Landa and Roy Fruehauf retain control of Fruehauf Trailer company, and that Beck turned it down. Landa also said he suggested that Beck use the union's purchase of stock in Montgomery Ward to organize Ward's 52,000 employes and to aid Ward Chairman Sewell Avery in his proxy fight against Louis Wolfson, and that Beck took the advice

Complex Custody Case in Courts For Study Today

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Two former wives and the present spouse of James R. Kraus appeared in court today in a complex custody case involving Kraus' five-year-old son.

Kraus, 25 and his present wife, Audrey M. Kraus, 22, filed suit to gain custody of James Leroy Kraus. Complicating the involved case is Kraus' second wife, also named Audrey, who opposes the suit on the grounds she had custody of Jimmy since divorcing Kraus in 1956.

County Court Judge James M. Guffey's task was made more difficult when Mrs. Susan Brooks, who had been Kraus first wife and is Jimmy's mother, announced she wanted to regain custody of the boy.

Kraus and Jimmy's mother were divorced May 7, 1953. Two days later he married Audrey E. who immediately began taking care of Jimmy. She had two children by Kraus.

Kraus was granted a divorce from his second wife who retained custody of Jimmy. He admitted to the court that the second wife had taken good care of his son and she was the only mother the boy had ever known.

Kraus and his present wife, Audrey M., want to make a permanent home for Jimmy.

Monessen Man Is Accused by Police

James Strang, of 1225 Maple Ave., Monessen, has been charged with violating the state motor vehicle code after he allegedly struck a parked car and then failed to stop, police said today.

He is charged with striking a car belonging to Joseph Falbo of 401 Oakland Ave., Charleroi, which was parked near Seventh St. and Schoonmaker Ave. yesterday.

He was traced through his license plate number, police disclosed.

Congress Caught by Economy

WASHINGTON (UP)—The congressional economy drive today caught up, in a small way, with Congress itself.

The House Appropriations Committee, which has been dealing out cuts averaging 7 per cent against the record high budgets of the government's executive agencies, reduced by about 2.7 per cent next year's spending plans of the House itself.

Small as it was — amounting to only $2,208,343 — the recommended curtailment came as fresh evidence that the congressional economy drive was rolling unchecked, despite a stern new warning from President Eisenhower against unwarranted cuts.

In the face of the President's press conference comments on the dangers of "trifling" with the national defense, House defense experts clung to their two and one-half billion dollar cut in Eisenhower's request for new defense funds.

Deny Jeopardy Charge

They denied that the recommended reduction would in any way jeopardize military strength. Chairman George H. Mahon (D-Tex.) of an appropriations subcommittee handling the big military budget said as far as he knew no effort would be made to reverse the subcommittee's tentative economy action.

In other developments, the House Wednesday did its now-customary stunt for economy by passing a pared-down money bill for the Agriculture Department. And the Senate—which in the past has tended to restore funds cut by the House—went the House one better in approving an appropriation bill for the State and Justice Departments and the United States Information Agency which made deeper cuts than the House previously had voted.

Ordinarily the congressional budget, prepared by congressional leaders and officers and included by the President unchanged in his overall budget for the government, is approved pretty much as is.

Even today, the House committee did not make much of a dent in the rising cost of lawmaking. The total legislative budget—including Senate funds not covered in today's bill—still will run about 120 million dollars, up more than 12 million dollars from this year's outlay and more than 36 million more than it cost to run Congress in 1956.

Home-Economy Gesture

But in what was at least a gesture toward economy at home, the committee today trimmed the budget request for the House and some joint House - Senate functions from $80,678,628 to $78,470,285.

Mahon declined to comment on or to confirm the disclosure by other defense subcommittee sources that the group had tentatively agreed to sponsor a 7 per cent cut in the President's request for $36,200,000,000 in new funds for the military.

"I think the President is absolutely right in opposing rash, indiscriminate reductions," Mahon said. "Whatever cuts are made by our subcommittee will be designed

Leader Warns Isolated School Segregation Must End Oct. 1

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader warned today the isolated instances of racial segregation in Pennsylvania public schools must end by Oct. 1 and posed the threat of withholding state subsidies if the involved districts do not comply.

The governor said the Public Instruction Department will make another extensive survey immediately at the start of the next school year of the segregation problem.

Speaking of the district where segregation was disclosed recently, the governor said:

"If these districts do not eliminate segregation as they promised or if other cases of segregation come to light and the local authorities refuse to take action necessary to end such segregation it will be the policy of the Commonwealth to do everything within its power to eliminate such segregation."

He listed such available measures as withholding of subsidies, legal action in the form of mandamus to compel the end of segregation, criminal action under the penal code against those responsible, and proceedings under the Fair Employment Practices Act if there is discrimination against teachers.

The initial department survey disclosed that integration is not in effect in the Steelton-Highspire district in Dauphin County and the Coatesville and Kennett Consolidated districts in Chester County. The city of Scranton reported student dances were segregated at all schools in the community.

Sets Deadline

When the governor was asked what deadline he would fix for compliance he said it should "tentatively be by October first."

"I don't say we are going to throw the book at them if they haven't complied by then," the governor said. "But we are going to bring every pressure we can to see that they do comply."

Concerning the practice of some schools segregating student activities, Leader and Attorney General Thomas D. McBride who attended the governor's news conference, agreed that such a practice must end.

Asked about a segregated Hi-Y

Caterpillars in An Invasion of County Trees

Legions of eastern tent caterpillars have invaded the Westmoreland County district and are destroying many trees.

Joseph J. Thurston, county agent, said the caterpillars become full grown in early June when they stop feeding. They then spin cocoons under rough bark or rubbish or protected places near infested trees. The adult moths emerge in late June and deposit their eggs on twigs. The insect is in the egg stage during the winter.

To kill the insect, Thurston recommends spraying two pounds of DDT 50 per cent wettable powder to 100 gallons of water. If using a small spray, the rate is two tablespoons of the same DDT powder to one gallon of water.

Mother Hacks Three Children, Self to Death

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)— A distraught mother hacked her three children to death in a homicidal frenzy and then plunged a butcher knife into her own heart, authorities said today.

The bodies were discovered by her husband, George W. Conley, when he hurried home from work Wednesday.

The attractive mother, Elizabeth, 33, had been under treatment for a nervous breakdown. Her body was found lying on the blood-soaked living room floor, a butcher knife through her chest.

Nearby were the slashed bodies of the Conleys' daughter, Rebecca, 6, and a son, Matthew, 4. Two blood-smeared butcher knives lay next to them.

Conley found the body of his youngest son, John, 2, in the bedroom with a knife plunged in his chest.

Croatian Club in Donora Burglarized

Donora police said today they are continuing their investigation of the burglarizing of the American Croatian Club on the corner of Fourth St. and Castner Ave. sometime early yesterday.

The burglar broke into the bar room by jimmying the front door. He rifled the register of an undetermined amount of cash.

No Refunds for Toll Bridge Fares

HARRISBURG (UP) — Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler said today no refunds will be made to motorists holding leftover toll bridge tickets used on some of the 10 state-owned spans which were freed Wednesday morning.

"Purchasers of the ticket books were advised some time ago of the date tolls would be lifted and the last effective date was stamped on late issues of the tickets," he said. "There will be no refunds."

Conduct Survey Of Schoonmaker Widening Project

Francis Brady, assistant district engineer, State Department of Highways, together with Gerald Vitale, of Westmoreland Engineering Co., of Monessen, today conducted a pre-final inspection survey on the proposed widening and repaving of Schoonmaker Ave. from Sixth to 17th streets.

Brady informed Mayor Hugo J. Parente this morning that final plans should be ready in about four weeks and that actual work should begin about July 1.

The project will cover three-fourths of a mile, beginning in front of the Baptist Church near Sixth St. and ending in front of the Pittsburgh Steel Federal Credit office near 17th St.

The estimated cost of the widening and repaving has been set at $135,000 which the state will pay. The City will pay about $50,000 for the new sidewalks and curbing included in the project.

If the project gets under way as scheduled, the Mayor believes it can be completed by October, barring unforeseen difficulties.

At Least 60 Are Hurt in Small Texas Village

SILVERTON, Tex. (UP) — A tornado that looked like a berserk cloud of red sand smashed into Silverton late Wednesday night, killing 20 persons in the town and its outskirts and injuring at least 60.

Highway Patrol Capt. J. W. Blackwell said 19 were killed in Silverton itself. He said at least 58 were injured. In addition to these, Mrs. E. E. Puckett, 30, who lives near Silverton, was killed and her two children hurt.

"It dipped and popped and looked like red sand boiling and rumbling when it hit," Mrs. Billy Stevens said. "It looked like a real low cloud that had a belly on it and then it began moving through town."

The tornado was one of at least a dozen that rumbled around over the Texas panhandle Wednesday night, injuring at least six other persons and shattering homes and barns at scattered points.

Twenty - five homes were destroyed in Silverton, a town of about 850 residents. Fifteen more were badly damaged and another 15 slightly damaged. A cotton gin was destroyed, along with four grain elevators and a barracks that in cotton picking season houses Mexican workers.

Family Wiped Out

The tornado disgorged pieces of lumber and furniture from the homes it wrecked for a mile around. There was nothing except the foundation left of some homes. Five members of one family were reported killed.

United Press Correspondent Tom Higley said six bodies were loaded into one pickup truck. The dying and injured were parcelled out to hospitals in larger towns surrounding it.

Dr. C. H. Black said he had treated 50 or 60 persons himself, all covered with mud and suffering from shock, head injuries and cuts. The more seriously injured were sent to larger hospitals at Lockney, Lubbock, Dimmitt, Tulia and Amarillo.

Captain Blackwell's figure of 58 injured evidently included only those in serious enough condition to be kept in hospitals.

Official rescue workers feared the toll would mount higher as state troopers and residents who escaped death or injury dug through the ruins of 25 homes looking for more victims.

The tornado struck Silverton about 11 p.m. c.s.t. in the southwestern section, tearing through an area about eight blocks long. Many houses fell apart, leaving only the floor and foundation.

An eyewitness said he saw only a bathtub and the foundation in the ruins of a home.

Before the tornado descended on Silverton, it touched down at Lockney, about 17 miles to the southeast, injuring a woman and two children.

The tornado roared into Silverton long after an alert had been sounded in the panhandle, but residents went to bed at the usual hour and were trapped when their homes crashed down them.

A. L. Chick, a member of a geophysical team stationed in Silverton, said he was watching televi-

Hot Dispute Is Raging Between Acheson, Hagerty

WASHINGTON (UP) — A sizzling dispute raged today between the White House and former Secretary of State Dean Acheson over whether President Eisenhower recommended in 1947 that American troops be pulled out of Korea.

Acheson, in a rare outburst against a government leader, charged angrily Wednesday night that Eisenhower proposed the withdrawal while he was Army chief of staff in 1947. He said the State Department opposed the recommendation "but eventually bowed to the insistent views of the military."

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty retorted that Acheson's statement "missed the entire point." He said the troop pullout—which was made in 1949—was a "political decision, not a military one."

He said he would issue further comments today when he had studied Acheson's statement in detail.

Acheson's remarks, issued through the Democratic National Committee, were prompted by remarks Eisenhower made while defending his budget in a televised speech Tuesday night.

Milk Meeting Tomorrow in Pact Deadlock

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Industry and union negotiators will try Friday to resolve contract differences which have led to a threat of a strike by 3,000 dairy plant workers and driver-salesmen in 11 Western Pennsylvania counties.

The meeting was requested by the Greater Pittsburgh Dairy Industry Association after it reviewed the contract deadlock in a day-long session Wednesday.

C. J. Milroth, executive director of the 65-member association, said the industry would attempt to find an area of agreement on wage differences.

No deadline has been set by Local 205, Milk & Ice Cream Salesmen - Drivers and Dairy Plant Employes, whose members voted strike authorization last Monday.

The union is free to call a strike anytime, since its contract with the association expired May 1.

Elvis to Leave Hospital Today

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Teenage "rock 'n' roll" idol Elvis Presley was expected to be released from Cedars of Lebanon Hospital today following removal of a porcelain tooth cap from his right lung.

Doctors said the tooth cap was removed from the lung successfully by bronchoscopy, which is the insertion of a narrow tubular instrument down into the throat. No surgical incision was made.

The singer-guitar player was taken to the hospital Wednesday after he swallowed the cap during a dance number for the film, "Jailhouse Rock," at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios.

Doctors said the cap apparently popped down Presley's windpipe and lodged in the lung. They said the singer would be able to return to work in a few days.

Weiss Main Speaker at Jeannette Rally Tuesday

Atty. David H. Weiss, of Monessen, was principal speaker at a political rally held Tuesday in Jeannette by the "regular" Democrats supporting the organization-backed Bauer-Sculco slate in Tuesday's primary.

Weiss, who is also an assistant district attorney of Westmoreland County, appealed for support of the "Democratic organization." He claimed that Atty. Joseph M. Loughran, a former assistant D. A. who is running against Judge Edward G. Bauer and L. Alexander Sculco for judgeship nomination, "is not thinking of the party, but only of himself" in his candidacy.

Joseph Wattras, of Monessen, employed in the county treasurer's office in Greensburg, also urged support of the entire ticket. Wattras spoke in Polish.

GOP Wants Credit In Freeing of Bridges

HARRISBURG (UP)—Republican Senate Floor Leader Rowland B. Mahany said today that former GOP Highways Department officials "should be given due credit for their labors" in freeing the 10 state-owned toll bridges Wednesday.

Speaking on the Senate floor, Mahany referred to newspaper publicity given Gov. George M. Leader concerning ceremonies here Wednesday morning marking the removal of tolls from two of the bridges.

"Very often those who work in the vineyards early in the morning and through the heat of the day are not present when others have the opportunity of picking the grapes when the time of harvest arrives," Mahany said.

"I feel the Republicans who were in charge of the state Highways Department for many years should be given due credit for their labors to free teh bridges."

The 10 bridges were purchased by the state in 1949 and 1950 from private owners and tolls were lifted May 15 with ceremonies at several of the spans to celebrate taking of the last toll.

Governor Leader personally collected the last nickel on the Market St. bridge over the Susquehanna River at Harrisburg.

Democratic Floor Leader Sen. John H. Dent joined Mahany in his statement but took the opportunity to hit the GOP for their cuts in Highways Department revenues. Dent, who led the administration's unsuccessful fight to retain the state gasoline tax at six cents, warned that the highway budget approved by the Republicans contained no provisions for the cost of upkeep of the 10 spans.

"Unless we find more revenue for the Highways Department," Dent said, "we may have to pull down not only on the bridges just freed but on many others."

New Crisis Threatening Suez

Israel Is Determined To Use It

By UNITED PRESS

A new crisis was blowing up today over the Suez Canal.

Israel reaffirmed its right and determination to use the international waterway while Egyptian officials repeated their determination to halt any Israeli ship and blamed President Eisenhower for "encouraging" Israel.

Egyptian newspapers attacked the Eisenhower statement today and said "it is really to be regretted that when conditions are beginning to stabilize. America should encourage an Israeli move which may result in world conflagration."

France announced it would ask the United Nations Security Council to reopen the entire Suez Canal question on Monday in hopes of weakening Egypt's total control of the waterway.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold called a news conference today which may shed further light on the canal problem and give new details of his peace talks last week with Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion.

In London Prime Minister Harold Macmillan faced a Labor party vote of censure tonight on his government's decision to use the canal on terms laid down by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir today reaffirmed Israel's rights to use the Suez Canal and said, "we shall defend our rights by all the means at our disposal."

However highly - placed Israeli sources said Israel has acceded to a request from President Eisenhower not to launch a test ship through the canal in the near future. Previously Israel was expected to test the blockade "very soon."

Mrs. Meir, in an interview with United Press Correspondent Eliav Simon also affirmed Israel's right to use the Gulf of Aqaba and said Saudi Arabia's announced intention of closing the Gulf of Israeli shipping violated international law.

HELD IN MISSING BOY EXTORT — John March (right) and Jose Maez look a bit disconsolate in custody in Chicago after participating in an attempt to extort $5,000 from Countess Olga Barattieri di San Pietro for return of her missing 14-year-old son Vittorio. March, 65, a skid row hotel employe, tried to lure the countess to a street corner rendezvous, but a policewoman showed up instead, and the place was all staked out. Maez, 43, whom March enlisted to sound a warning in case of trouble, was a bit too late. He revealed himself by taking a swing at a policeman.

sion in a hotel lobby during a hailstorm. When the hail stopped pounding, Chick said, the electricity went off.

"I remarked to one of the boys, 'You know what that means,'" he said.

The storm then struck.

Five bodies were found in one home. Apparently they were members of one family.

The injured were taken to hospitals in the nearby towns of Dimmit, Plainview, Tulia and Amarillo.

The rash of tornadoes kept panhandle residents in near panic. One tore down seven houses in the community of Goldston and another damaged five in a rural area five miles west of the city of Clarendon. Still another hit Plains, a town on the western side of the panhandle, destroying a home and two business houses.

Tornadoes also struck near Tulia, McLean, Lone Star, and Vigo Park. The storm at Tulia tossed a combine 300 yards and pulled up a mile of fence posts.

Continue Progress on California School

Progress is continuing on plans for the proposed construction of the California Junior-Senior High School, Carl Fellsburg, School Board president, announced yesterday.

Repeal of Allegheny Machine Tax Fought

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Representatives of 15 industrial communities spoke out strongly Wednesday against the proposed repeal of the machinery tax in Allegheny County.

They voiced their opposition at a hearing called by the county commissioners. The commissioners, who have given qualified approval to the proposed elimination, listened to the lengthy arguments but offered no comment.

Attending the meeting were officials of industrial communities heavily dependent on the tax, such as McKeesport, Duquesne, Clairton, Homestead and West Homestead.

Republican Mayor Frank Kopriver of Duquesne, who also is a member of the state Senate, stressed he is definitely against any reports to the contrary. any reports to the countrary."

Legislation eliminating the machinery tax is now in the hands of the Senate Local Government Committee, of which Kopriver is a member.

Kopriver said he favored further study of the bill. He said it was pushed along in "too big a hurry."

"Any time a thing like this is done in a hurry, something is rotten in Denmark," he said.

He said he would do all in his power to see that public hearings are held on the bill in Harrisburg.

Leo Kostman, representing Rankin and North Braddock, said that if the tax were repealed the burden now carried by industry would be shifted to the small homeowner.

Mayor Andrew Jakomas of McKeesport called for approval of a resolution asking the State Joint Government Commission to study the repeal proposal after the current Legislature adjourns. He said petitions opposing the repeal are circulating up and down the Monongahela Valley.

L. J. Richards, of the West Mifflin borough council, said repeal of the tax would force many of 6,000 new homeowners, most of them mill workers, to move from the borough.

Favoring the repeal proposal were representatives of United States Steel Corporation, Westinghouse Electric Corporation, the Pittsburgh and McKeesport chambers of commerce, the Smaller Manufacturers Council of Pittsburgh and the Pennsylvania Economy League.

Allegheny County is the only county in the state in which a tax on machinery is levied.

Another Bill to Help Bus Lines In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (UP) — Senate Majority Leader Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford) has introduced another in a series of bills aimed at reducing the financial pressure on public transportation systems which he described as "a sick industry."

A measure co-sponsored by Sens. Charles R. Mallery (R-Clinton); M. Harvey Taylor (R-Dauphin); Albert R. Pechan (R-Armstrong; Miles R. Derk (D-Lycoming) and C. Arthur Blass (R-Erie) would exempt vehicles seating 12 or more persons and designated as a common carrier from the eight mill tax on gross receipts.

Other Mahany proposals under study in Senate committee would relieve city bus firms of the six-cent gasoline tax, which is due to drop to five cents June 1, and would reduce registration fees for buses—now ranging from $196 to $300— to $1.

The gross receipts tax exemption would apply to all common carriers in the state under the jurisdiction of the Public Utility Commission. The sponsors of the bills said originally the relief was intended only for urban transportation systems, but Mahary said that the other bills would have to be amended to include all carriers, including inter-city and cross- country lines.

The uniformity of taxation provision of the state Constitution, he said, prohibits limiting the exemption to urban buses alone.

Chimps Lead Crowd, Police in Wild Chase

MIAMI (UP)—One frolicking chimpanzee won back the job of a fired zoo employe today but another met a sad end in police gunfire because he lost his temper.

The rampage by Maggie and Jiggs after slipping from an unlocked cage at the Tropical Hobbyland Zoo led dozens of policemen, firemen and zoo officials in an hour's chase through streets Wednesday.

Residents fled in droves. Fireman Anderson of the Humane Society got bites and scratches on his arm and zoo owner J. Jay Segal landed in jail, mainly because of ferocious Jiggs.

But to Maggie it was all in fun and by permitting herself to be coaxed back to captivity with a banana she won reinstatement for James Peeples, who had been discharged last week.

Jiggs a barrel - chested 200-pound male, attacked Anderson, who tried to rope him and fell dead from four .38 caliber revolver shots as he then turned upon Ptl. James Hartley.

Police were ready to shoot Maggie, then swinging in nearby trees, but Peeples called to her. "Maggie, come on down here, old girl." The seven - year - old female followed Peeples to her cage.

Segal rehired Peeples on the spot.

Segal landed in the arms of the law on charges of keeping dangerous animals and allowing them to roam loose, and was scheduled for trial on May 23 despite his objection that his arrest "doesn't make sense."

Police pointed out that this was the chimps' sixth escape since 1946 despite frequent warnings given to Segal. Once again Wednesday their cage was left unlocked.

Friends are being received at the Charles Hankey Memorial Home, 217 Freeport Rd., New Kensington.

House Receives Bill to Extend Tax Deadline

HARRISBURG (UP)—The House today received Senate approved legislation to extend for one more year a deadline for the equalization of county real estate assessments throughout Pennsylvania.

The Senate Wednesday approved a bill sponsored by Sen. William J. Lane (D-Washington) to extend the deadline from Jan. 1, 1958 to Jan. 1, 1959. Lane's bill originally moved the date back to 1960 but that was changed in committee.

The measure received some opposition from the Democratic side where a few senators held counties had been given enough time to set up uniform assessments.

Sen. Jo Hays (D-Centre) pointed out that county commissioners were given six years to set up the system, since the original act was enacted in 1951. Some six or eight counties, he said, have made no move to comply with the act.

Sen. Harry E. Seyler (D-York) said repeated extensions of the deadline have made the act "the laughing stock of the state."

No penalty was set for failure of county commissioners to set up the new uniform assessments, but a municipality or school district may petition the court for an order forcing the commissioners to ...act once the law is in force.

The only counties exempt from the act are Philadelphia, Allegheny, Delaware, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Montgomery, Westmoreland and Berks.

to improve efficiency and economy of our military forces."

A Republican subcommittee source expressed hope Eisenhower and other administration leaders will go slow in condemning the reported cut until they know its details.

This source confirmed earlier reports that much of the recommended defense slash is in the nature of deferments, transfers and other bookkeeping devices and does not represent actual savings.

The President, who warned Tuesday night of "terrible consequences" from any "material" cut in his $36,200,000,000 defense budget, told his news conference Wednesday he could "not see" how an "honest" cut of such magnitude could be made.

He added he had not seen the bill and it was possible "there is some meaning in it to which I know nothing."

Other Budget Blows

Elsewhere on the budget front, observers were referring to a "Black Tuesday" for the President's program. In solar plexus blows:

—The Senate, by overwhelming 61-15 vote, slashed another $15,000,000 from the U. S. Information Agency despite a last-minute plea from the President—making a total cut of 37 per cent in requested funds for the overseas propaganda agency. It then passed 77-0 and sent to a Senate-House conference an economy-style appropriation for the State and Justice Departments including the USIA money.

—The House, by a 192-187 margin, voted to kill the administration's "soil bank" and went on to cut Eisenhower's farm appropriation request by 227 million dollars. The measure was sent to the Senate.

Parente Rally

Campaign Manager John Kotch, Jr., said an overflow crowd is expected at the rally to be held tomorrow night for Mayor Hugo J. Parente and other members of the City Hall slate at the New Italian Hall beginning at 8 o'clock. He said "regular" Democratic candidates from the county have been invited to speak.

Candidates Never Tire

Probably the two most indefatigable candidates in the pre-election campaign are Mayor Parente and Stephen Sinchak. Parente, who is anti-Sinchak, and Sinchak, who is anti-Parente, appear to have an endless abundance of energy.

No Stieska Rallies

No scheduled political rallies have been announced from John R. Stieska's camp. Stieska, who is opposing Mayor Parente, seems to prefer meeting voters individually rather than in groups.

National Steel Puts Off Naming Chairman

WEIRTON, W. Va. (UP)—National Steel Corp. directors met here today but put off naming a successor to retiring board chairman Ernest T. Weir.

Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, who has indicated an intention to retire from his Eisenhower Cabinet post about July 1, has been widely mentioned as Weir's personal choice for the key post in the nation's fifth-ranking steel company.

National Steel directors today re-elected all present officers of the corporation except board chairman but announced a special board meeting will be called "in the near future" to deal with selection of an executive for that spot.

After renaming Thomas E. Millsop as National Steel president, the directors amended the corporation by-laws to provide that the duties of board chairman would be primarily in connection with financial and policy matters of the corporation. Thus the president becomes the chief executive officer of the corporation.

Humphrey is a former official of National Steel Corp. He was chairman of the National Steel executive committee as well as board chairman of the M. A. Hanna Coal Co., Cleveland, before he took his cabinet post in 1953.

Following today's meeting the directors made an inspection tour of operations in the plants of Weirton Steel Co., a division of National Steel.

A dividend of $1 for the second quarter of 1957 was declared at the directors meeting. The dividend will be payable June 11 to stockholders of record May 27.

School

Club at the Steelton - Highspire school district, McBride said that if it remained segregated it must disassociate itself from the school.

"They can't make school property available for such a segregated club," McBride said. He added that a letter would be sent to every school district outlining Pennsylvania's statutes against segregation, asking compliance and indicating the courses open to the Commonwealth if such compliance was not forthcoming.

Some of the schools involved indicated that they could not end segregation for several years. Another said a new school building had to be completed before the separation of races was ended.

But Leader and McBride indicated that these schools also would be expected to comply "even within their present framework of facilities."

House to Act On Abolishing Welfare Dept.

HARRISBURG (UP—Republican sponsored legislation to abolish the state Welfare Department moved to the work calendar of the House today.

The proposal, a plank in the GOP legislative program, was approved Wednesday by the State Government Committee. The Republicans, controlling both legislative chambers, have clashed frequently with Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro over appropriations.

The bill would transfer all present Welfare Department functions to the Public Assistance, Justice and Health departments. The name would be changed to the Department of Public Assistance and Welfare.

The change, if enacted, would become effective June 1. It was sponsored by House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (McKean) and Rep. Edwin E. Lippincott (R-Delaware).

Ike to Visit Farm

WASHINGTON (UP)— White House Press secretary James C. Hagerty said today that President Eisenhower probably will fly to his Gettysburg, Pa., farm late Friday afternoon.

Billy Graham Opens New York Crusade to Near-capacity Crowd

NEW YORK (UP) — Evangelist Billy Graham called in Protestant ministers today to try to turn his $1,300,000 New York Crusade into a 'spiritual revolution" which will sweep America.

In the unlikely setting of Madison Square Garden, Billy Wednesday night began the biggest, toughest battle of his meteoric career—to sway cynical New Yorkers to Christ and thus fan a "spiritual fire" across the nation.

He won the first round.

A near-capacity crowd of 18,500 persons of all walks and all ages jammed the big sports arena, shook its rafters with hymns and sat in reverent silence as he spoke.

Gets Record Response

Then a record first-night number of them stepped forward to make their "decision for Christ."

First singly and then like a tide rolling down from the upper reaches of the Garden, 435 persons came to stand before Billy's flower-banked pulpit. They overflowed into the nearby press section and adjacent hallways.

It was nothing like the 5,000 who came forward one night in the Philippines or the 3,200 at London's Wembley Stadium. But Graham was buoyed by what he called the "overwhelming response —beyond anything we had anticipated on the first night."

The 38-year-old North Carolina evangelist scheduled a meeting this morning with the Protestant ministers of the 1,540 New York area churches which are sponsoring his long-awaited, carefully-planned crusade. They were to join him in a Cinerama movie house to discuss jointly the real purpose of the crusade — that is, to channel those who make "decisions" into the churches of their choice.

TV Shows Planned

The opening - night crowd dropped an offering into cardboard delicatessen boxes to help the crusade which has a budget of $900,000 for rental, promotion and office operations and $400,000 for four national Saturday night television shows starting June 1. The sum collected was not announced immediately.

Concerned that some people were centering their attention "on Billy Graham instead of God," the evangelist said, "we have come, not as some have said, to put the Republicans in power, clean up New York or make Baptists out of everybody. We have come with the express purpose of winning men and women to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. Get one thing very clear —whatever you've read (about me), give the glory and praise and honor to God."

"We have prayed," Graham said in introductory remarks, "that New York will have a spiritual resurrection which will be the beginning of a spiritual revolution.

In his 6,500 - word sermon on "The Christian Answer To The World Dilemma," Graham mentioned the words "sex" and "alcohol" only two times. If his audience had come expecting "hellfire and brimstone," they did not hear it.

Bail Reduced In Theft of Art Objects

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Bail for a 39-year-old Drexel Hill, Pa., mapmaker, accused of stealing art objects, was reduced from $50,000 to $10,000 Wednesday.

The suspect, Walton J. Lord, is charged with stealing art objects from museums in Philadelphia, France and the University of Pittsburgh.

Detective Walter Morgan said five small plastic figures Lord admitting stealing in Philadelphia were only copies of original works which are sold to museum visitors. Lord's attorney estimated the value of the figures at $20.

Assistant District Attorney Paul M. Chalfin said Lord has admitted to far more serious thefts and suggested the bail be set at $10,000.

He said French authorities have been contacted regarding action they intend to take.

Authority Duties Explained

Kerry McAmbly, newly-appointed administrative assistant to the executive director of the Washington County Redevelopment Authority, spoke on duties of the Authority at a meeting of the Washington County Boroughs Association in New Eagle last night.

McAmbley emphasized the individual boroughs must take the initiative in asking the authority for help. The authority then takes whatever steps it can to provide assistance.

Association Secretary Howard F. Carson distributed transportation tax exemption certificates to boroughs sending representatives to the state convention in June.

Boroughs not represented at last night's meeting, and needing certificates, are asked to contact Carson.

To Oppose Bill

The association recommended to the individual boroughs that they oppose House Bill 544, which amended the police pension bill No. 600, passed by the last legislature. The proposed amendment will make the pension bill applicable to forces of three or more; the present bill applies to eight or more.

The boroughs were asked to contact State Senator Lane and object to the bill, which has passed the House.

New Eagle was the host borough at the meeting in the local natatorium. Association president Anthony Karpus, Brownsville, presided.

Boroughs represented were Allenport, Brownsville, California, Canonsburg, Centerville, Charleroi, Cokeburg, Donora, Dunlevy, Elco, Finleyville, Long Branch, New Eagle, Newell, North Charleroi, Roscoe, Speers, Stockdale and West Brownsville.

The association will not meet during the summer. The next meeting will be in September.

K of C Nominates Officers At Meeting; Election June 2

Officers for next year were nominated at last night's meeting of Monessen Council 954 Knights of Columbus.

Named are Louis Smith, grand knight; Arthur Trilli and Louis L. Manderino, deputy grand knight; Percy Moussiaux and Anthony Idzik, chancellor; Charles Niehaus, warden; Julius Treater, Anthony Idzik and William Venneri, recording secretary; Leonard Falbo, Mike Kozlowski, Carmen Dabiero, trustee; Armen Dabiero, advocate; Joe DeLuca, inside guard; John DeLuca and Nello Tineri, outside guard; Henry V. D'Alonzo and Louis Smith, delegate to the state convention; Idzik and Michael Kisenko, first alternate; Louis Manderino, second alternate.

Nominations will remain open until the next meeting, Sunday, June 2, at 1 p. m. and the voting will be held until 6 p. m. in the council rooms. Smith, who is presently serving as grand knight, has no opposition.

During the business session, Julius Treater reported on council activities and donations were made to the Midget Football League and to the American Museum of Immigration to help complete the Statue of Liberty national monument.

Plans were completed for the annual graduate communion breakfast for Catholic graduates on Sunday, May 26, following the 9 a. m. mass at St. Hyacinth. Breakfast will follow at the Polish Hall. Officers of the council will comprise the committee.

Mike Maisano is in charge of plans for the men to attend a Pittsburgh Pirate baseball game. The annual stag picnic was set for June 23, at Maple Grove and the members will go by chartered bus.

Henry V. D'Alonzo reported on the state convention held recently in Harrisburg.

Joseph Falbo won the council award and refreshments were served.

Harsh Speech From Gomulka

WARSAW (UP) — Western observers expressed surprise today at the harshness of Communist Party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka's speech to the party leadership Wednesday and predicted it would get, at best, a cool reception from the Polish people.

Gomulka called on Communists to toe the party line or face expulsion and called for a Khrushchev - style decentralization of Polish industry in an indication that Poland still intends to hew largely to the Soviet line.

Gomulka spoke at the opening session of the ninth plenum or meeting of the party's central committee. The plenum today took up economic matters and was expected to study Poland's current bid for financial aid from the West.

The Most Rev. Hugh L. Lamb, S.T.D., Bishop of Greensburg, will confer baccalaureate degrees on 117 students, the largest class in the history of the college. The commencement exercises will be held in Sullivan Hall.

Move to Revive Censors Board In House Today

HARRISBURG (UP)—A proposal to revive the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors moved to the floor of the House of Representatives today.

The U. S. Supreme Court several years ago ruled movie censorship unconstitutional and the decision resulted in elimination of the state board. Supporters of censorship for motion pictures have been unable, since that time, to come up with legislation which they felt would meet the constitutionality test.

Under the new bill, the revived board would have the right to disapprove "obscene, lewd, lascivious, indecent, filthy or vile" films. However, the agency would not pass upon all films but would investigate those on which it received complaints.

Distributors and exhibitors would be subject to a $25 to $50 fine for first offenses and a $50 to $100 fine for second violations. Default in payment of the fine would be punishable by imprisonment of from 10 to 30 days.

Sponsors of the legislation are two Allegheny County Democrats —Reps. Leo J. McLaughlin and Walter T. Kamyk.

Refuses to Dismiss Conspiracy Charge

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Federal Judge Joseph P. Willson denied a motion Wednesday for dismissal of an indictment charging Odie Seagraves, Texas oil wildcatter, with conspiracy in the theft of oil survey maps from Gulf Oil Corporation.

He also refused a request by Seagraves' attorney that the court inspect the minutes of the federal grand jury which returned the indictments against Seagraves and three other men.

No trial date has been set, because one of the suspects, Irving Millner, is believed hiding in Canada.

'Routine Business'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The executive board of the United Steelworkers, headed by president David J. McDonald, met Wednesday on what was described as "routine business."

PTA Officers Installed At Final Meeting Here

A program on recreation and installation of officers highlighted last night's meeting of the Monessen Parent Teacher Association, the final one of the year, in the High School auditorium.

Speakers were Stephen Pfiester, chairman of the Monessen Recreation Board and Frederic Feldman, assistant recreational director. Pfiester outlined the recreation program. He also urged that parents cooperate in teaching children respect for the playground equipment and sites.

Feldman outlined the special events he has planned for the local young people for the summer season.

Mrs. Matt Zoretich, first vice president, presided in the absence of the president, W. R. H. Patterson. She was installed along with Mrs. John Stieska, second vice president; Mrs. Everett Vernacini, financial secretary; Mrs. John Dragan, recording secretary; Mrs. Michael Skirpan, Jr., corresponding secretary and Mrs. Michael Buchar, treasurer.

Installing officer was John Harsha, of Belle Vernon, newly elected Westmoreland County PTA Council President. He commended the local unit, as the largest in the county.

High School Principal Henry Furio urged parents who are interested in having their children make up work in the summer in the Junior-Senior high schools to consult the Junior - Senior handbook, where a complete outline is available.

The meeting was preceded by a piano recital played by Jean Plavetich. Vocal selections were presented by a chorus composed of students of the third and fourth grades at the Vocational School under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Stieska. Miss Reah Seanor was accompanist.

Attendance banners were presented to the following students, who represented their rooms, which had the best percentage-wise parental attendance at PTA meetings. Carol Shrader, Jefferson School; Elayne Musial, Washington; Elizabeth A. Seamon, Ben Franklin; Diana Kachur, Linden; David Dragan, Vocational and John DeMarco, Lincoln.

Refreshments were served by the Hospitality committee from the Lincoln homeroom mothers. Mrs. Anthony Panepinto was chairman assisted by Mrs. John Povtis, Mrs. Anthony DeRocco, Mrs. Michael Senko, Mrs. Thomas DeMarco and Mrs. John Kootsouradis.

Judges in Washington County Differ on Bid From Religious Group

The Washington County court yesterday differed on the issuing of a charter for a Jehovah's Witness congregation in Canonsburg.

Judges George T. Cummins and David H. Weiner approved the incorporation in a brief, routine order, but Judge Roy I. Carson wrote the dissenting opinion, based chiefly on his apprehensions over the possible military effect on the nation of evangelistic success by the incorporating religious group.

A lengthy hearing at which considerable testimony was taken followed the filing of the application for incorporation on April 17.

"The testimony of the incorporators shows the proposed incorporation would increase the number of citizens who will not assist in the defense of our country . . ." Judge Carson wrote.

At the hearing extensive questioning was done by the court on the purposes of the incorporators and what they and their minister-members would do if called upon to bear arms for the United States.

The answer was:

"Well, that would have to be a matter of individual standpoint or point of view. Each one would have to determine that for himself. We do not as a corporation or congregation, make such understanding, but as individuals."

"In the instant case," Judge Carson wrote, "while the incorporators were at first evasive and would answer only . . . in general evasive terms, when finally pinned down they admitted that if successful in their effort, they would eventually destroy the armed might of the United States of America. While it may seem an exaggeration to look forward to the eventual success of the plan of the petitioners' group, this Court should not lend itself to promoting such an inglorious end for the United States of America."

The petitioners also testified that part of the purpose of the incorporation was to enable them to hold title to a church building for the use of their congregation.

Fire Insurance Rate Boost Is Again Delayed

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Middle Department of Fire Underwriters, an agency representing 357 insurance companies seeking a boost in fire insurance rates in the Philadelphia and Allegheny area, agreed Wednesday night to wait an additional 45 days for a ruling by the State Insurance Department.

The move by the underwriters was a reversal of their earlier request for a ruling by May 28th. The agency filed a petition for a rate increase on March 2. A ruling by the state insurance commissioner is normally required within 60 days.

Counsel for both sides held a conference Wednesday night at which they agreed to wait another 45 days to allow the insurance commission to study all the testimony.

The proposed increase in fire insurance rates would cost Philadelphia property owners an estimated eight million dollars over a five year period. The present rate in Philadelphia is $8.00 per $1,000 worth of insurance. The increase would amount to a $1.60 per $10,000 worth of protection.

Rates for the other counties would remain the same or would be lowered.

Cool Weather Is Expected In the State

By UNITED PRESS

Partly cloudy and cool weather with some frost, is expected throughout Pennsylvania today as a result of a cool air mass which passed southward over the state Wednesday night.

The expected high temperatures today will range from 50s in the northwest to the 60's in the southeast.

Tonight is expected to be clear and cool with frost in the northern or central portions of the state. The low temperatures are expected to range from near 30 degrees in the northern interior to 40 degrees elsewhere.

A low pressure area now over Texas is expected to move into the state and bring increasing cloudiness Friday with rain in the the southern portion in the afternoon and little change in temperature.

Saturday will be warmer with scattered showers and thunderstorms likely.

Reception for New Pastor at St. Luke's Church

A reception in honor of the new pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Matthias Joensuu, will be held at St. Luke's Lutheran Church on Reed Ave., Sunday evening.

The various organizations of the church including the Ladies Aid, the Bethel Sisters, the Church Council, the Men's Chorus, and the Sunday School have participated in the planning.

Each group will be represented in the short program too be presented in the church at 7 o'clock. The Rev. Paul Trout of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, and Rev. Lester Crum, president of the Ministerial Association of Monessen, will speak briefly.

All members of the Ministerial Association and their wives have have been invited to attend. An informal social hour in the church dining hall will follow the program. Members and friends of St. Luke's are invited.

Methodists in Meeting Today

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—A report by the Committee on Adequate Ministerial Support—dealing with higher pay for ministers—will highlight today's session of the 132nd annual Pittsburgh Conference of the Methodist Church.

About 500 delegates representing 166,000 members of 466 churches in Southwestern Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia also will hear reports from the Women's Society of Christian Service and committees on World Peace and Temperance.

Dr. G. Warren Smucker, superintendent of the Washington district, told delegates' Wednesday the first year of the quadrennial program for Christian higher education resulted in contributions of $52,800 for West Virginia Wesleyan University, Allegheny College, Mt. Union College, Dickinson College and Lycoming College.

Smucker said $20,000 also was contributed for the Westminster College Seminary. He said the conference's Hungarian relief drive netted $26,647.

Dr. Ernest V. May, executive secretary of the conference Board of Missions and the Methodist Church Union, said progress was being made toward establishment of churches in new Western Pennsylvania communities.

He also reported progress in a special project at the Brushton Methodist Church in Pittsburgh. The church has a mixed racial congregation with a white pastor and Negro assistant pastor.

The five-day meeting will be climaxed Sunday with announcement of pastoral assignments by Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke of Pittsburgh.

Back the President

WE DO NOT see how members of Congress can, in good conscience, do anything but support President Eisenhower in his budget proposals, especially those having to do with national defense.

We recognize, of course, that Congress is co-equal with the President and that its word must be paramount where the spending of money is concerned. And Congress does less than its duty if it does not carefully scrutinize the expenditures proposed by the President.

Nevertheless, it seems to us that congressmen must listen most carefully when the President speaks about the defense of the nation in terms as strong as Mr. Eisenhower is using. He is virtually pleading with Congress not to tamper with the defense budget lest it "sacrifice our sons and our cities". He speaks of "terrible consequences" if our military strength is reduced below the levels which have been carefully planned by those, including himself, who bear primary responsibility for the safety of the nation.

This is strong language indeed — and from a man not given to exaggeration about serious public problems.

Congress cannot forget, moreover, that Mr. Eisenhower has a special competence in the realm of the military. He was a great wartime strategist and commander. He was a brilliant Chief of Staff of the Army. And his masterful leadership in the formative stages of NATO gave him an intimate personal knowledge of the problems of countering an attack by the Soviet Union on the Western world.

It would seem to us, therefore, that if there is a standoff between the President and the military committees in Congress, the President is certainly entitled to the benefit of the doubt.

At this moment of history, our defense strength is preventive medicine. Far better that we should have too much than not enough. And if the difference between Mr. Eisenhower and the economizers in Congress is, as we now read, about two and a half billion dollars — let us consider how long two and a half billion dollars would last in an atomic war.

Scratch the Dummies

ONE OF THE ignominies we have to suffer in Westmoreland County and Monessen for turning our public affairs over to the control of a political machine is the "slate" which is thrown at the Democratic voters in each primary election.

The slate, of course, is actually a confession of weakness. When they draw up their slates, the leaders of the machine are simply saying that all of their candidates can't stand on their own qualifications and their own records — some have to be propped up like dummies.

Strong individual candidates don't need slates. They can go before the people with certified credentials in the form of experience and training and records of performance in their own names and solicit support on the basis of these personal credentials.

Political machines use slates because some of their candidates lack personal credentials, and the weak ride into office on the coattails of the strong. This device is the cause of more bad government than any other aspect of our political system.

Intelligent voters will pay no attention to slates. Because one candidate has been a good public official is not a sensible reason to vote for some other candidate. The intelligent voter will make a serious effort at the primary election to weed out the dummies by studying the personal qualifications and backgrounds of the individual candidates and voting as his conscience — and not some self-serving politician — tells him to vote.

Library Needs

MONESSEN'S urgent need for larger and more modern public library facilities is always dramatically illustrated by the vital statistics concerning the public's use of the present facilities.

For example, consider the fact that in the 12 months ended April 30, a total of 56,444 books were borrowed. Yet the Library has only 15,008 books in its collection.

Because of lack of space in the present building on Fifth St., the Library has had to drastically curtail its purchases of new books. And this at a time when the demand for books and information is increasing steadily.

The Civic Library Association is in the midst of plans for its new building to be constructed on Donner Ave. between Third and Fourth Sts. When these plans are ready to be unfolded and show how Monessen can have a library service adequate to its needs, the public's support undoubtedly will be enthusiastic.

Merry-Go-Round—

Suez Crisis Bonanza for Oil Companies

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The stockholders reports of big corporations usually make dull reading. But the reports of the major oil companies this spring make fascinating reading.

Mr. Pearson

They show that the Suez Canal fiasco may have put the skids under Britain as an empire, but it made beautiful music in the cash registers of the big American oil companies. They reaped millions from Britain's tragedy at Suez.

The oil companies had been asked by the Eisenhower administration to supply oil to Western Europe, formed a semi-official committee to do so, asked the right to avoid compliance with the Sherman Anti-trust Act. Then they immediately announced a stiff increase in the price of oil.

Humble Oil, a subsidiary of Standard of New Jersey, led the way with an increase of 35 to 40 cents a barrel. These two companies are controlled by the Rockefeller family, which contributed $152,604 to Eisenhower in the '56 campaign. The family of Chris Herter, new Undersecretary of State, inherited its millions from Standard of N. J., while the Dulles law firm in New York — Sullivan and Cromwell — represents Standard of N. J. ... .

Profits Increase

As a result of the increase, Standard of N. J. raked in the whopping total of $237,000,000 in net profits during the brief first three months of this year — 16 per cent higher than the same period last year.

Biggest profit bonanza from Suez went to Gulf Oil — 30 per cent during the first three months of 1957 over the same period last year. Gulf gets all its oil from the Gulf of Persia, is closely affiliated with Union Oil of California of which Undersecretary Herbert Hoover Jr., was executive vice president. The Mellon family, which controls Gulf, contributed $100,150 to the Ike campaign last fall.

The Texas Company's profits shot up 23.5 per cent during the first three months of 1957 and board chairman Augustus Long frankly stated in his report to stockholders that the big spurt was due to Suez. Texas is a part owner of the Arabian American Oil Co.

Standard Oil of Ohio jumped its profits 20 per cent during the first three months, despite the fact that its volume increased only three per cent. Clyde T. Foster, president of Sohio, admitted that the Suez crisis was responsible.

Socony Mobil and Standard of California, both part owners of the Arabian American Oil Co., each jumped its profits 13 per cent while Sinclair increased 8 per cent despite the fact that sales increased only 18 per cent.

No July 4 on Film

President Eisenhower has refused to film a special message for the annual Fourth of July celebration at Philadelphia's Independence Hall, birthplace of American independence.

Answering for the President, White House aide Frederic Fox wrote to William Goldman, chairman of the Celebration Committee: "I must report that this message will — like the Declaration of 1776 — be carried on paper, not on film." Ike, he said, would send a written message only.

This burned up the celebration committee which appealed to U. S. Information Director Arthur Larson, pointing out that a filmed message would dramatize our Independence Day around the world.

"I am sure," wrote city representative Abe Rosen, "that this filmed commentary by the President would be something that every movie house and television network in the country would use on July 4th."

Larson wrote back that the White House's refusal was final.

Exit Un-American Chairman

The passing of Sen. Joe McCarthy will be followed by the departure from Washington of his counterpart in the House of Representatives, ex-Congressman Harold Velde. Rep. Velde who once created rival headlines as chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has been hanging around Washington since he withdrew from Congress, trying to wangle a job from the administration. His latest bid was for the chief counsel's job at the Federal Housing Administration. He even tried to drum up clients for a private law practice but couldn't raise enough business to make it pay.

Now the former ex-headline hunter is about to pack his bags and ... on the coat of his former triumphs. He is even using his free postal privileges as an ex-congressman to see his home ...

Ex-congressmen are entitled to free postage for six months after they leave office to clean up their official business. This privilege is not supposed to be used, of course, for personal mail. Yet Velde is ... free postage ... movie boxes, offering his house for sale.

Arms Talks Make Progress

By WALTER LIPPMANN

It seems to be just possible that an agreement of some sort will be reached at the London conference on the regulation of armaments. Mr. Stassen and the administration in Washington are talking hopefully, and there has indeed been considerable evidence on the Soviet side, as well as on our own, of a desire to negotiate a limited and experimental agreement.

Mr. Lippmann

From years and years of talk about "disarmament," we have all learned to be very skeptical — indeed, to suppose that neither side is willing to pay the price of an agreement, and that the conferences are for propaganda and not for negotiation. But somehow or other the give and take between Mr. Stassen and Mr. Zorin has begun to look as if a genuine negotiation might actually be in the making.

If that turns out to be true what, we may ask ourselves, has happened to bring it about? For there is no sign that the cold war has abated, and that we are any nearer than we were to a settlement in Europe or in the Middle East. Why, then, when a settlement of the great issues is not in sight, should we allow ourselves to think that there might be an agreement on arms?

We can say, I would suppose, that both military coalitions are finding that the competition in armaments has reached a point where they cannot stand the strain. Neither, of course, is willing to abandon the competition. Both are however finding that the pace is too severe, and there are important signs that both the NATO powers and the Soviet bloc need a breathing spell.

We are, we know, in the midst of one of the greatest of all revolutions in the technology of war. For the military planners this poses a perpetual dilemma. Shall they arm with the weapons that exist, and take the risk that these weapons will soon be obsolete? Or shall they get ready for the weapons of tomorrow, and leave themselves badly armed for warfare today? The dilemma is posed because neither coalition can afford to arm fully with the weapons of today and at the same time to invent, develop, and produce the weapons of tomorrow.

If Deterrent Fails?

This dilemma is producing economic and military consequences which both sides — each in its own way — find alarming.

In the West, there is a strong tendency to resolve the dilemma as the British have decided to resolve it. That is to say by concentrating on the deterrent power of the new weapons, and in fact to accept the idea of a radical transformation of the orthodox and conventional military services.

It may indeed be that there is no practicable alternative to this concentration on the deterrent power of the big nuclear weapons. But it does open up the alarming possibility that if the deterrent weapons should fail to prevent war, the continent of Europe might become an atomic battlefield.

The net of all this is that there is, as President Eisenhower said some years ago, no alternative to peace. This is another way of saying that there is no alternative to coming to some kind of agreement, explicit or implicit, between Moscow and Washington.

Soviets Fear Missiles

The Soviet Union is also subject to heavy pressure to reach some kind of pause or slow-down in the race of armaments. For the time being, and probably for some years to come the Soviet Union is at a military disadvantage in the race of new armaments. The Soviet government is showing a great deal of anxiety, and most probably the cause of this anxiety is that the United States has a substantial strategic lead in the field of the guided missiles of intermediate range. Launched from NATO bases in Europe, these missiles can strike the heart of the Soviet Union whereas Moscow has no missiles of sufficient range to strike back at the United States.

Both sides, therefore, feel vulnerable and threatened at this stage in the evolution of armaments. Western Europe is, as the British White Paper said with such brutal candor, indefensible in a modern war. The Soviet Union has become vulnerable to a devastating attack by missiles against which there is no defense and no corresponding power of reprisal.

These are not all the considerations why there are now such strong inducements to negotiate. But they are the main considerations. Within this context, we can see too what each of the two parties is most concerned about.

Danger of Surprise

From our point of view, the principal strategic asset of the Soviet Union is that being a closed country and a dictatorship, it can act by surprise. The United States, which will not soon forget Pearl Harbor, is supremely sensitive to the danger of surprise attack, and American policy in these disarmament talks is in the main addressed to the problem of surprise.

Our emphasis on inspection from the sky and on the ground is inspired by the wish to do away with the secrecy behind which a surprise attack can be mounted. We would like to make it as impracticable for the Russians as it is for us to strike without warning.

As seen by the Russians, the greatest strategic asset of the West is the productive capacity of the United States. They have no forgotten how under war conditions the American economy can produce weapons. What the Russians are always seeking, therefore, are agreements which would prohibit or would limit the production of weapons, especially of the new nuclear weapons. Whereas we would like to open up to view the closed system of the Soviet Union, the Russians would like to stop or at least to slow up the military output of American industry.

The crux of the negotiations which may have begun is an attempt to strike a balance between these two strategic elements — between the Russian capacity for surprise and the American capacity to produce

East Germany's Reds Fear Another Revolt

By CHARLES M. McCANN

East German Communist leaders are showing signs of acute anxiety over increasingly open opposition to Red rule.

There has been no violent outbreak. But the Red leaders plainly are aware that they rule only by sheer force. Their actions show that they fear a revolt.

Mr. McCann

The latest manifestation of opposition to the Communists has come in what is really a minor strike by students in the veterinary college of Humboldt University in East Berlin.

The strike came after Dean Guenther Schuetzer of the college fled to West Berlin early this month. Schuetzer had been warned that the Reds intended to arrest him.

Anti-Red Demands

Schuetzer's crime was that he had supported anti-Communist demands by students, including the abolition of the compulsory study of the Russian language and Communist doctrine.

The students refused to attend classes held by professors who substituted for Schuetzer. The entire junior class of 122 went on strike last Thursday.

The Communist "worker's militia" in East Berlin was put on the alert. The Red government threatened to expel all striking students.

This failed to work. The striking students were then suspended. They showed no sign of repentence. The Communists next lifted the suspensions. But the students refused to return to classes.

Now it is reported that in a new shift of tactics the authorities have decided to expel 11 leaders of the strike and have arrested two of them.

Loyalty Tests Started

The Humboldt University strike, however, has caused increasing unrest in some other schools. The Communists, as the result, have started to make "loyalty" tests among students.

It is evident that the Communists are aware that they have good reason to be worried.

They would be able to crush any outbreak. They have an army of 120,000 men. Their "worker's militia," consisting of loyal Communist factory workers, numbers perhaps 100,000. Backing up these forces are 400,000 Russian occupation troops.

But the Communists are faced by numerous problems. There is a very serious coal shortage. Agricultural production is lagging. Food is still rationed in the Communist zone. Recent official statements have indicated that rationing will not be abolished, as had been promised, at the end of this year.

'Hair Curling' Remark Of Humphrey Twisted

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's telecast effort Tuesday night to rally the voters behind his spending policies makes it appropriate today to give another thought to who said whose budget would curl whose hair.

Mr. Wilson

A lot of voters would miss that one if it were the $64,000 question. And would they be surprised! Just for fun, ask yourself what Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey did say about a hair curling depression back there in early January when the new Eisenhower budget had just hit Congress between the eyes.

What Humphrey actually said and the question to which he was responding went like this:

Question Poised

Q Mr Secretary...looking at this budget, I find that the lion's share of the increased expenditures is for mutual security and defense. Is there any hope anywhere in the world situation that you can do any cutting in defense spending in the next few years?

Humphrey: I think there is; Yes, I do. I think that there is some hope you can reduce expenditures all along the line. I would certainly deplore the day that we thought we couldn't ever reduce expenditures of this terrific amount the terrific tax take we are taking out of this country. If we don't, over a long period of time, I will predict that you will have a depression that will curl your hair, because we are just taking too much money out of the economy that we need to make jobs that you have to have as time goes on."

The point of all of this, if any, is that Humphrey did not predict a hair curling depression or any depression to come merely from adoption of the one-year spending program proposed in the new budget. He was thinking years ahead.

Should Be Cut

Humphrey thought then, and the President now is publicly in agreement with him, that the budget could be cut some. Moreover, Humphrey felt then and now that it should be cut.

The phrase "hair curling depression" caught public fancy and remains today about all the average voter is likely to remember of Humphrey's January budget remarks.

However definitely Humphrey intended his hair curling crack to apply to the long haul future, it became attached to the immediate budget. It was on the voters' misconception that day of what Humphrey actually meant that the administration lost the budget ball.

Eisenhower team play on the budget mostly has been inept and fumbling ever since. If Gen. Ike regained possession of the budget ball Tuesday night he can count himself mighty lucky.

The Woman's View—

Barney Got a Jolt

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Mrs Barney Ross who divorced her husband while he was a narcotics addict only to remarry him two years later, believes her action helped him get the "monkey off his back."

"If I had to do it over, I still would do the same thing," said Cathy Ross, whose husband boxed his way to two world championship titles.

"I believe Barney would have beaten the habit without me," she continued. "The same thing that made him a champion would have taken over eventually.

"But I think he needed the jolt. As long as he thought he would not lose the wife and daughter he loved, I don't think he realized how sick he was. Love can be only so much help to the other person."

Life Story Filmed

The story of Ross's fight to shake the narcotics habit, of his marriage to Cathy, Howlett, a former Ziegfeld Follies dancer, and of his career in the ring and in the Marine Corps in World War II is told in a movie, "Monkey On My Back" to be released in June.

Ross, former lightweight and welterweight champion, met Cathy while she was dancing in an Ed Wynn musical in Chicago. A month after their marriage, he was on his way to the Pacific War Theater.

Ross, holder of the Silver Star for bravery, was wounded on Guadalcanal in 1943 and returned to the United States. He and Cathy, and her daughter, Noreen, by a previous marriage, settled in Los Angeles.

She explained that her husband's craving for morphine (the monkey on his back) began in the hospital while he was recuperating from shrapnel wounds and malaria acquired in the war.

It Still Hurts

"It still hurts to talk about those terrible years," she said. "It may seem strange, but it took me a long time to realize he was a victim of the drug habit. I felt a horrified shock.

"The worst of it was I wanted to help him, but didn't know how."

She divorced Ross in 1947 and went to work as a model to support herself and child. Shortly afterward, Ross voluntarily entered the U.S. government hospital for narcotics addicts, in Lexington, Ky. He was discharged as cured four months later. They remarried in 1949.

"We never stopped loving each other," she said. "The divorce was a legal thing, nothing more."

Vera Soroka Weds Anthony J. Trona

United in marriage in a ceremony performed in St. Philip Neri R. C. Church of Donora on Saturday morning, May 11, at 10 o'clock, were Vera Soroka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Soroka, of 125 Price Ave., Belle Vernon and Anthony J. Trona. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Antonetta Trona, 1038 McKean Ave., Donora and the late Cosmo Trona.

The Rev. Louis A. Farina heard the exchange of vows before an altar arranged with ferns and white carnations. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Presents Bouquet

Given in marriage by her father the bride placed a bouquet before the statue of the Blessed Virgin before her nuptial rites. She chose a gown of imported Chantilly lace over slipper satin. It was styled chapel length with a fitted bodice of lace with a tiny row of buttons down the back and long pointed sleeves accented with a ruffled edge. The Peter Pan collar was trimmed with pearl and sequin trim and the very full skirt was fashioned of tulle with a ruffled back marked with lace appliques. She wore tiny pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom and her fingertip veil was of sheer illusion held to a crown of seed pearls, crystal sequins and rhinestones. She carried a floral bridal arrangement.

The honor attendant was Gerri Mucci, niece of the bridegroom and the two bridesmaids were Martha and Irene Soroka, sisters of the bride, Vera Moneta and Nellie Fritsky, of Belle Vernon. Miss Mucci chose a pink nylon net gown with a fitted bodice and tiered skirt with the sides draped in an apron effect and trimmed with matching bows. She wore a matching jacket and headpiece and carried a harmonizing bouquet. The bridesmaids wore gowns of heavonly blue chiffon and nylon tulle styled with an empire waistline and bodice with a very full skirt and matching stole. They wore blue flowered tiaras and carried harmonizing flowers.

Robert Amatangelo was the best man and ushers were James Pyle, Michael Tirpak, David Zucconi and Richard Botticelli.

Mothers Attend

The mother of the bride wore a dress of navy blue lace with matching accessories and a red rose corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue eyelet dress with navy accessories and a red rose corsage.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the bridal party and the wedding dinner was held at the Park Casino. In the evening the couple received friends and relatives at the Russian Hall in Belle Vernon. The theme of the decorations was in pink and white and a tiered wedding cake centered the bridal table.

Out of town guests attended from Aliquippa, Ambridge, Pittsburgh, Monongahela, Jeanette, Donora, Monessen and Charleroi.

When the couple left for a Canadian trip the bride was wearing a gold raw silk tweed dress with a red cumberbund and black accessories. On their return they will reside at 1038 McKean Ave., Donora.

The bride was graduated from Rostraver Township High School and attended Feuster's Beauty School. She was employed at Haas Shoe Store in Charleroi. The bridegroom was graduated from Donora High School and is employed at the American Steel and Wire Co. in Donora.

Luncheon was served by Mrs. John Govrusik, Sophie Hubans, Martha Jankura, Mary Hurianko, Mary Janicki, Mary Hritsko, Justine Havrilak, Ann Guglar, Helen Jacobs, Helen Josko, Ann Imbrogno, Ethel Kraynek and Antoinette Kraynek.

Margaret Bill was welcomed as a new member to the club.

Birthdays observed were those of Mary Bailey, Eva Bleier, Mary Callahan, Sue Cekus, Elizabeth Gombos, Helen Jacobs, Martha Jankura, Sophie Latkanich, Anna Malinchak, Mary Skurla, Pauline Sypolt, Hazel Weibl and Marion Kostichak.

Cynthia Forty Is Baptized At St. Cajetan

Cynthia Marie Forty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Forty, of 348 Schoonmaker Ave., was baptized on Sunday at St. Cajetan R. C. Church. The Rev. Leonard Sanesi officiated.

Godparents for the baby were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Ambrose.

A family dinner was held at one o'clock and then for the remainder of the day relatives and friends were received at open house.

The baby received many gifts. This is the couple's second child, the first being a daughter, Barbara Ann.

Turner Ladies Auxiliary Will Meet in Summer

The Monessen Turner Ladies Auxiliary met last evening in the Turner Hall for a routine business session. Plans were made to continue the regular meetings during the summer months.

An outing will be planned in the near future.

Mrs. Mary Hayes and Mrs. Frances Faraci will be the delegate and representative respectively at the Turner convention in McKeesport on Sunday. A large group of members also plans to attend.

Jennie Valente was the winner of the club prize and luncheon was served by Mrs. William Guzzie and Mrs. Alex Hubans.

Mrs. Mary Hayes and Mrs. Edna Jones were named hostesses for the next meeting.

Deanne Restivo Is Bride of R. Mastracci

Solemnized in Winchester, Va., on Saturday, May 4, was the marriage of Deanne Restivo and Robert Mastracci. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Restivo, of 223 Manown St. and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Mastracci, of 449 Motheral Ave.

The couple was unattended.

The bride wore a navy blue dress with poudre blue accessories.

Both young people were graduated from Monessen High School, the groom in 1953 and the bride in 1955. He is now employed at the Pittsburgh Steel Co. and his bride is employed by Magura Clothing Co.

LOCALS

Mrs. Bennie Tyburski, of McMahon Ave., left for Brooklyn, N. Y., this morning. She was called there by the death of her sister, Mrs. Mary Mroz and was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Michael Hrebnar. The funeral will be on Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. George Freer, of Liberty, N. Y., are visiting at the home of Greer Hare and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lane, Fayette City R. D. 1. Mrs. Freer, the former Vivian Lyons, was a teacher of music in the Iowa School. She is a niece of Mr. Hare.

The Fellowship Class of the First Methodist Church will meet in the church parlors tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. and the hostesses will be Mrs. Virginia Tressler, Mrs. Min Crum, Mrs. Zeta Nickeson, Mrs. Margaret Bednarczyk and Mrs. Gwendolyn Henshall.

The Children of Mary of the St. Cajetan R. C. Church will hold a regular meeting tomorrow at 3 p. m. in the church. This is an important meeting and all members are asked to be present.

The regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to Hose House 2 will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the fire hall. The Bell Telephone Co. will show a film as the program.

The tour of the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital planned for tomorrow evening by the Ladies of the Italian Mutual Aid Society has been cancelled.

Mrs. Costa New BPW Head

Mrs. Frank Costa was elected president of the Monessen Business and Professional Women's Club at a dinner meeting held last night at Johnson's restaurant.

Other officers elected were Ruth Hornbake, first vice president; Mrs. Betty Retarik, second vice president; Ann Sistek, recording secretary; Mrs. Mary Shark, corresponding secretary and Adeline Altemara, treasurer.

Chosen as delegate and alternate to the State Convention were Ruth Hornbake and Gloria Mahalko.

The session was the annual business session arranged by Mrs. Costa as finance chairman. In keeping with the national slogan, "May Days Are Pay Days" (a reminder that dues are payable at this time) paper money was strewn over the tables and a mock money tree was the centerpiece.

Honored guest was Nell Berlin, District Director, who spoke briefly concerning the associations within the club and urged the members to attend the convention in Philadelphia. She was presented with a gift.

Thank you notes were read from the Belle Vernon Library Association and the Easter Seal committee for contributions sent them and from the Chamber of Commerce for acting as the finance committee at the Post Prom party.

Hear Report

Donations were voted to the Junior Women's Club for the Miss Mon Valley program and also to the Midget Football League.

Ann Sistek, a delegate to the Spring District meeting, gave her report and officers submitted their annual reports in writing.

Isabelle Johnson and Melia VanDuzen were named to the auditing committee.

Installation of officers will be held in June at the Pittsburgh Playhouse with the hospitality committee in charge.

BIRTH

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Weaver, Charleroi, a daughter, 8 pounds, 7 ounces, May 13, at 3:56 p. m., at the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

Bob Mastracci, the slugging Monessen Ozark, drove in no less than 15 runs in his first four Mon Valley League baseball games this season . . . McKeesport High officials have devised a "painless" scheme to increase the price of season football tickets. For 1957 the season tickets will still sell for $7.50. However there will be only six home games instead of the usual seven . . . By the way, season ticket sales at McKeesport dropped from 2,666 in 1951 to 1,590 last season . . . Belle Vernon's Trozzo brothers, Al and Sonny, will be rivals in the Mon Valley League this season. Al is with the Monessen Ozarks; Sonny with Fayette City. Both are catchers.

Felton Brown, Monessen's gift to the Westminster College track team, smashed his own 220 yard record the other day by covering the distance in 21:08. That's just a second shy of the all-time Titan record. Brown also ripped off the 100 yard dash in 9:08 for the second time this season despite a soggy track . . . By the way, Westminster's big meet will be Saturday's Tri-State affair at Allegheny College . . . Charles Noble, ex of Monongahela, is one of four candidates battling for a starting end position on the 1957 Toledo University football team.

More Changes in Basketball Rules

In the past decade and a half, basketball rules-makers have almost completely changed the game. Every year, they devise a new batch of rules. Next season will be no exception. Most of the changes are minor and will not excite the fans. However there is at least one major change. From now on, the first four fouls in a half (the first six fouls in college ball) will be worth just one shot from the charity line. After that, each foul will result in the one-and-one which prevailed the past season. . . . Another new rule will prohibit a digit higher than five from appearing on jerseys. In the PIAA, schools have until the 1960-61 season to comply with this change.

Patterson's Manager Has Declared 'War'

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson today faced the possibility of defending his title in July against Zora Folley, not a snake charmer or a belly dancer but s'help me, Hannah, listed as the seventh ranking challenger.

The reason behind this startling development is a glib-talking Don Quixote named Cus D'Amato, the owner of Patterson who has declared willing war against the promotional monopoly of the International Boxing Club D'Amato also promised to boycott any challengers bound to the IBC by exclusive contracts

"I exclude nobody as an opponent quoth Cus with great vigor as he announced that Emil Lence, who gave him his early backing at Eastern Parkway when Patterson couldn't get an IBC "break," would get his support as an independent promoter

Only One Chance

"We are ready to fight the No 1 man and, if he is bound to the IBC we will work our way right down the line" D'Amato bristled But the men who refuse to meet us will never get another chance at us while we hold the title"

This poses an interesting problem

Most of the top six challengers Hurricane Jackson Eddie Machen, Harold Carter, Willie Pastrano, Harold Johnson and Bob Satterfield — always manage to obtain a full share of lucrative IBC television work The inference may be drawn that they are playing footsie with the IBC

Now, the IBC still isn't out of the woods even though it has been declared a monopoly It will box furiously in federal court next week to squeeze out as much leeway as possible

In Lieu Of Championship

If the IBC, through fast footwork, manages to protect most of its exclusive promotional contracts, it can be anticipated that Patterson will be treated like a process server with the mumps. In this case the IBC can be expected to line up a series of bouts among the top heavyweights to keep them in action.

Fighters have furious appetites, particularly heavyweights. Thus one bout against Patterson—which is all that most of them could ever hope for — wouldn't hold forth much hope for a prosperous future But boxing a round-robin for the IBC would keep them working, and eating.

This is not to say that D'Amato isn't right to challenge the monopoly. It's simply that he figures to run out of windmills with extreme rapidity.

In other words, after Zora Folley what happens?

Fight Involving Moore Postponed

STSTTGART, Germany (UP) — A non-title fight between world light - heavyweight champion Archie Moore and Pedro Klyssens of Holland, scheduled for May 25, has been postponed because of an injury suffered by Klyssens during training Local promoters have begun negotiations with Italian French and Belgian heavies to find another opponent for Moore.

Sports Car Champ Will Race Sun.

Walter Hansgen of Westfield N J, last year's winner of the feature race at the Cumberland National Championship Sports Car "spectacular," will attempt a repeat performance when he returns to the Maryland city on Sunday

Hansgen, piloting a D-Jaguar leaped into the racing spotlight when he copped the No 1 spot at the Maryland Classic in 1956

The New Jersey "speed merchant" will again be driving a D-Jaguar, one of three entered by the famed millionaire sportsman Briggs Cunningham of Greens Farms, Conn.

Cunningham, often referred to as Mr Sports Car will drive his Cunningham C6R, while John Ditch the man who helped keep General Motors in the sports car racing field at LeMans France, and Sebring, will pilot another D-type Jaguar from the Cunningham stable.

Noted Drivers

Other noted drivers who are already entered in the final event of an 8-race card include Ed Gelder of Steubenville, O. He will drive his own Ferrari Monza to mark the first time out in "big time" competition.

James R Johnston of Cincinnati appears to be one of this year's dark horses for the finale of the Cumberland Classic which will attract upwards of 50,000 spectators. Johnston will drive a Ferrari Testa-Rosa.

Bob Bucher, of Binghamton, N Y, another lesser known driver may draw respect from the large field of competitors in the last race of the day with his Cadillac-Allard.

Loyal Katskee, one of the better known drivers in Mid-western Sports Car competition, will be seated in the cockpit of his Ferrari Monza patiently waiting for the drop of the green flag to begin the feature race. Katskee comes from Omaha, Neb

Discuss Match Between Patterson And Jackson

NEW YORK (UP)—Managers of the world heavyweight champion and the top contender may speak to each other for the first time in five years Thursday at a conference set up by Emil Lence, the newly designated title-fight promoter

Gus D'Amato, pilot of champion Floyd Patterson, and Lippe Breidbart, mentor for Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson—who have been enemies for five years—are expected to discuss terms with Lence and the attorneys for all parties concerned.

Neither D'Amato nor Breidbart have disclosed the cause of their long feud.

Expects License

The conference is slated for the afternoon since Lence expects to get his promoter's license for "Eastern Parkway Fights, Inc" at the forenoon meeting of the New York state Athletic Commission Thursday

He apparently is confident of approval.

D'Amato is similarly confident, for Thursday, he designated Lence the promoter for Patterson's first title defense "somewhere in the New York area" in July. Muscular, gray-haired D'Amato simultaneously announced his official break-away from the International Boxing Club and his declaration of war upon that still powerful organization

Charleroi Nine Will Meet Brownies Friday

Charleroi High's baseballers — Section 17 champions — will make their WPIAL Tournament debut tomorrow at 2 30 p m against Brownsville, the Section 18 king.

The tussle will take place at the neutral Fayette City diamond

The game will mark Charleroi's third appearance in WPIAL post season events this year. Cougar teams also took part in the football and basketball title play.

Coach Jim (Toots) Fillingham planned to start his ace southpaw, Carl Witmyer, against Brownsville. Witmyer has an 8-0 record this season and a career mark of 27-2 in scholastic play

Chuey to Pitch

His mound opponent will be Bob Chuey, the junior who is also quite a basketball standout

Chuey pitched the Brownies to a win in a previous tournament assignment He worked the distances as Brownsville blanked Waynesburg, Section 19 champion, by a 4-0 score on Monday. That game went eight innings

Charleroi compiled a 9-1 record during the regular Section 17 season The only loss was suffered in the finale at California. By then the title had already been decided

Penn State Seeks Baseball Berth

Post-season competition is becoming a habit at Penn State, where Joe Bedenk's current baseball team aspires to a berth in the NCAA, District Two, play-offs for the sixth time in nine years.

If the 1957 edition makes the grade, it will mark Penn State's third straight appearance in the title series its sixth since the play-off idea was adopted in 1949

Champion once, and runner-up twice, the Nittany Lions made their most effective showing in 1952, when they represented the district in the College World Series at Omaha, Neb., and went to the fourth round before they were eliminated.

In 1957, as in former years, a specially-appointed selection committee will meet on or about May 30 and choose the entries for the play-off series, which has been held in Allentown for several years past.

Midget League Meeting Sunday

A very important Midget Football League meeting will be held Sunday at 7:30 in the Ravens Club.

Alex Kachmarik, chairman of the current fund-raising drive, has requested that all campaign workers have their money turned in by then.

"Money and unsold tickets should be returned before Sunday to Stephen Pfeister, Roy DeRocco, Allen Kline or myself," said Kachmarik. "Naturally everyone is invited to Sunday's meeting."

Kachmarik pointed out that the public phase of the campaign will close this week.

Tri County Loop Will Try Again

The Tri-County Softball League will try again tonight to open its 1957 season.

Three games are on tap Charleroi Lee-Norse will play host to Roscoe Fairhope Rod-Gun will welcome French Club to Lynnwood, and Donora will lay out the mat for Pricedale Hillcrest

That letter game was one of two postponed last night because of rain The other tussle erased by the weather would have matched Monessen USW against Monongahela C-E.

Three contests are slated tomorrow. Monessen will meet the Fairhope Firemen at Marion; Naomi will tackle Pricedale at Lynnwood, and Donora will meet Monongahela at Webster.

Cro-Ams to Make City Loop Debut

Italian Hall, atop the City League softball standings through the grace of the weather man, will meet the tough Cro-Ams tonight at 6 o'clock in City Park

The Italian Hall boys started the season on Monday by beating the Myfords. Since that's the only game in the books so far, the Italian boys are currently in first place

Last night's scheduled tussle between the Ravens and PNA was postponed because of wet grounds.

That was the second straight league battle erased by the weather

One softball match is also on tap tomorrow. Myfords will meet ULBA.

Seven Horses Set for 81st Preakness Sat.

BALTIMORE (UP) — The probable starting field for Saturday's 81st running of the Preakness at Pimlico stood at seven today with the surprise addition of Inside Tract, a graduate from the claiming ranks

Inside Tract, claimed for $12,500 at Jamaica last fall by Ray De Brino and Joseph Martino arrives from New York on Friday to join Iron Liege, Bold Ruler, Promised Land Nab Hiss, Federal Hill and Inswept as the field for the mile and three-sixteenths Triple Crown classic.

While most of the probable starters prepared for final blowouts, horsemen turned their attention to Inside Tract, which twice has changed hands via claims Before De Brino and Martino claimed him, the son of Ace Admiral was picked up for $7,500

The colt, trained by young Jack Wepert Jr, finished three-quarters of a length behind Assemblyman in a mile and one-sixteenth event at Jamaica on Monday. He has won three of nine starts, but the Preakness will mark his first start in stakes company.

Iron Liege, Calumet Farm's chief hope who upset the form by winning the Kentucky Derby, is the favorite at 4-5 with the Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler the second choice at 2-1 Federal Hill is next at 6-1, followed by Nah Hiss and Inswept at 12-1, Promised Land at 30-1 and Inside Tract at 50-1.

MHS Tennis Duo In WPIAL Match

Baker, Kurey Bid for Doubles Title at Mt. Lebanon Today

A pair of Monessen High School juniors will bid for the WPIAL doubles championship today at Mt. Lebanon. They are Joe Kurey and Jim Baker.

The two all-around athletes will represent Section 4 in the annual tournament Another valley boy, Fred Rummell, of California, will participate in the singles event.

Originally Kurey was to appear in both the singles and doubles division of the tourney. However WPIAL officials decided that he'd have to select one or the other Kurey elected to stay with his tennis partner. So he and Baker will try to give the school its first championship tennis pair in history.

Good Chance

The Monessen boys are rated a good chance in the event which will begin at 2 p m.

The winners in both the singles and doubles play will represent the WPIAL in the state-wide tournament at Penn State later in the month

Monessen High's complete tennis team — champion of Section 4 — will begin post-season action next Monday against Latrobe The time and place of that match is still to be determined.

The team championship will be held next Wednesday.

Palmer to Seek West Penn Title

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Arnold Palmer has decided to take a leave from the pro golf circuit and make a third stab at winning the West Penn Open.

In two previous tries at the West Penn Open title, the Latrobe golfer finished in ties for second place On both occasions, 1949 and 1950, he was still an amateur

Lew Worsham of Oakmont will be defending champion in the tournament which opens at Fox Chapel Golf Club Monday He will be shooting for his third title

Palmer, winner of $12,000 thus far this year, will pick up the pro summer tour in the Midwest after the West Penn play

He will play in an exhibition Sunday and give a clinic at the new Holiday Acres public course near Latrobe Playing with him will be his father, M J Palmer; Frank Kiraly, pro at Holiday Acres, and Perry DelVecchio, pro at Greensburg Country Club.

Andrews Killed In '500' Warmup

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind (UP — The auto racing fraternity mourned the death of Keith Andrews today and wondered whether his crash in Nino Farina's new roadster would wreck the Italian's plans to compete in the 500-mile Speedway classic.

Andrews, 36, Colorado Springs pilot, was instantly killed Wednesday doing a practice spin around the 2½-mile brick and asphalt oval

He lost control of the sleek, maroon colored car on the northwest turn, slammed into the inside retaining wall at a speed of about 136 m p h and died of a broken neck and internal injuries.

The tail section of the American made car, which Farina purchased to race here and in Monza, Italy, was a twisted heap of metal—apparently too badly wrecked to be repaired in time for qualifications which open Saturday and end May 26.

Chief mechanic Miles Spickler said Farina's plans were uncertain.

"He's pretty upset about Andrews death" Spickler said "I don't think we can run this car here or in Monza" where the Italian version of the "500" is scheduled for June 2

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Closed Stance

Good chips clip strokes. No player can score well without good chipping. These shots can save or cost you strokes.

For a good chip, choose the right club, one that's deep enough to let you pitch safely on to the green, leaving eight to 10 feet as a margin of safety. Pick the spot you want the ball to hit on or near. Estimating the roll from that spot to the pins is a matter of touch.

The stance should be open, that is, with the left foot drawn back from the line. This position enables you to face the hole for better aiming. The weight is a little more on the left leg than the right. The ball should be played off the left instep with the feet quite close together.

The stroke must be firm, decisive, down and through the ball. Make the follow-through smooth, low along the ground, and straight toward the objective.

Keep your head very still and follow the ball with your eyes — only after it is well on its way.

Reports on Score Are Still Optimistic

CLEVELAND (UP)— Doctors continued to issue optimistic medical reports today on the condition of Herb Score's injured right eye, but they were still unable to flatly predict that he will be able to resume his career.

A terse medical bulletin released Wednesday said Score "is feeling increasingly better, and the eye continues to clear." The bulletin added, "we hope this progress will continue."

Rain Eraser Ozark Baseball Tussle

Rain washed out last night's scheduled game between the Monessen Ozarks and New Eagle.

As a matter of fact, the weather took care of the entire Mon Valley League baseball card.

It was reported that the postponed tussles will probably be played next Tuesday.

At any rate, MVL teams will be idle this evening.

The Ozarks will resume action tomorrow at Ninth Street Park against arch-rival Charleroi. That game should attract a big turnout for a couple of reasons.

Slam Bang

To begin with, Charleroi-Monessen clashes are always slam-bang affairs in any sport. Then, too, there's a new wrinkle to this collision.

Three Monessen products are members of the Charleroi starting lineup: Woch Cieply, Nick Mahalko and Dean Cheesebrough.

On the other hand, two Charleroians will wear Ozarks togs: Rich Zuraw and Tom Rotheram.

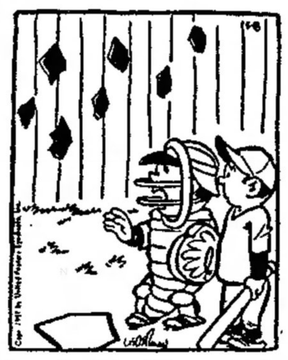
There's some drama connected with Zuraw. His older brother George is one of the key men in the Charleroi attack. So the brothers will be battling against each other.

Stronger Team

On paper, Charleroi appears to have the stronger team. On the field, it's been a different story so far this season. The Ozarks have won four straight games while the Charleroians have divided as may MVL tests.

Other games tomorrow will send West Newton to Van Voorhis, Perryopolis to Fayette City and New Eagle to Donora.

Li'l Leaguer



"Boy, if that pitcher only had control!"

Vaughn Blames Ref for Loss

CHICAGO (UP)—Willie Vaughn, an under - rated middleweight, blamed Referee Walter Brightmore today for his defeat Wednesday night by eighth-ranked Bobby Boyd.

Strangely, though, Brightmore gave Vaughn the decision in the bout by a 46-45 count and both judges voted for Boyd to give the Chicago fighter a split decision.

"I know he voted for me," Vaughn said, "but evry time he broke us, he pushed me off balance and threw me halfway across the ring and left the other guy alone. That cost me the fight, I think."

Many Players Released to Trim Rosters

By UNITED PRESS

You could field a fairly representative team from the list of players released Wednesday night when the 25-man roster limit went into effect in the major leagues.

For a pitching staff, you could take your pick of Karl Spooner of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Pete Burnside of the New York Giants, Bob Trowbridge of the Milwaukee Braves, and Dick Brodowski and Garland Shifflett of the Washington Senators. The catcher would be Haywood Sullivan of the Boston Red Sox.

Infielders released included first baseman Preston Ward of the Cleveland Indians, second baseman Woody Held of the New York Yankees, shortstop Billy Harrell of the Indians, and third baseman Rocky Bridges of the Cincinnati Redlegs.

The outfielders bounced were Neil Chrisley and Dick Tettelbach of the Senators, Wes Covington of the Braves, and Chick King of the St. Louis Cardinals.

With the exception of Bridges, Spooner, Brodowski and Tettelbach, all the players cut before the midnight deadline were released on options, which means they could be recalled during the current season.

Pirates Play at Milwaukee Tonight

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, idled Wednesday by cold weather at Chicago, make their initial appearance of the season here tonight when they open a three-game series with the Braves.

Bob Friend (2-3) will take the mound for the Pirate against rookie Juan Pizarro (1-1).

The Pirates were deprived of a chance to battle their way out of the National League cellar because of Wednesday's postponement. Had they played and beaten the Cubs, they would have moved into seventh place and dropped the Cubs in the cellar.

Ted Kluszewski Begins Exercises

CINCINNATI (UP) — Big Ted Kluszewski, determined to "show fans I'm not through" with baseball, began a series of exercises today designed to get him in shape to rejoin the Cincinnati Redlegs by June 9.

The home run slugger returned home from Boston Wednesday after undergoing extensive tests at Lahey Clinic, where doctors advised against an operation for a slipped disc in his lower spine.

Dr. James L. Poppen, Boston neuro - surgeon, instead advised Kluszewski to get in shape and play ball because "the disc is not ruptured."

Kluszewski was advised to do a lot of swimming and to do a series of "bumps and grinds" like a burlesque dancer in order to strengthen his hip.

Jim Wilson Pitches His Third Shutout of Season for Chisox

By UNITED PRESS

Jim Wilson, a strong, silent pipe-smoking type, wouldn't sit too well with Joe McCarthy, but the White Sox are sitting pretty in first place today because of his three shutouts and 1.04 earned run average, best among all pitchers in the majors.

McCarthy made no bones about his dislike for pipe - smokers. White Sox skipper Al Lopez, on the other hand, wouldn't care if the 35-year-old Wilson puffed on cornsilk as long as he pitches the way he did Wednesday night when he stopped the Senators on four hits, 5-0.

Wilson didn't allow a hit until the fifth and pitched his way out of bases-loaded jams in the eighth and ninth as he chalked up his fourth victory and ran his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 18. Walt Dropo homered off Washington southpaw Chuck Stobbs, who dropped his seventh straight game without a victory.

By winning their fourth straight game, the White Sox retained the American League lead by a half-game over the Yankees, who defeated the Athletics, 3-0, on Tom Sturdivant's five - hitter. Cleveland used seven pitchers in scoring a 16-inning, 11-8 triumph over Baltimore, and Boston beat Detroit by the same 11-8 score.

Redlegs, Braves Share First

In the National League, Cincinnati climbed back into a first-place tie with Milwaukee by defeating Philadelphia, 7 - 2, as Brooks Lawrence struck out 11 batters; St. Louis licked New York, 6-5, in 14 innings; Brooklyn toppled the Braves, 3-2, in 10 innings, and the Pittsburgh-Chicago game was postponed because of cold weather.

The Yanks scored all three of their runs in the first inning off Ned Garver with the aid of shortstop Joe DeMaestri's error. Sturdivant, who gained his second triumph, has now gone 30 straight innings without giving up an earned run.

Rocky Colavito drove in the tie-breaking run in the 16-inning marathon between the Indians and Orioles. George Strickland then drove in two more. Starter Bob Lemon was knocked out for the seventh straight time and Cal McLish was declared the winner. Mike Fornieles was the loser. Vic Wertz homered for the Indians.

Mickey Vernon and Jackie Jensen drove in seven runs between them to hand Detroit an 11-8 setback. The Red Sox rapped out 16 hits in handing Frank Lary his fourth defeat. Reliever George Susce was credited with the victory.

No., 4 For Lawrence

Lawrence held the Phils to five hits, one of them a ninth-inning homer by rookie Ed Bouchee, in posting his fourth victory for the Redlegs. Cincinnati collected its first three runs off rookie Jack Sanford, who dropped his first game after four straight victories. Smokey Burgess homered to help the Redlegs to their 13th win in the last 14 games.

Hal Smith's 14th inning single drove in Del Ennis with the winning run in the Cardinals' victory over the Giants. Larry Jackson, St. Louis' sixth pitcher, picked up his fourth victory while Al Worthington suffered the loss. Sam Jones started for the Redbirds but was knocked out by a four-run outburst in the first inning. Johnny Antonelli, the Giants' starter, lasted only five innings.

Little Don Zimmer's fourth homer of the year in the 10th inning off Lew Burdette gave Brooklyn its victory over Milwaukee. Reserve first baseman Frank Torre gave Braves' starter Gene Conley a 2-0 lead with a two-run double in the sixth but Gil Hodges homered in the seventh and the Dodgers tied the score with another run in the eighth. Clem Labine was the winner in relief of Don Drysdale, who gave up Milwaukee's only two hits in the seven innings he pitched. The Dodgers made only four hits, three of them off Conley.

Eels May Return to Susquehanna River

Eels may return to the Susquehanna River and its tributaries before long.

A joint elver transfer program has been undertaken by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission and the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission to bring the eels back.

The initial transfers saw the young eels gathered by the Maryland agency below the Conowingo Dam, and received at the states' border by personnel of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission. They were then transported and planted up river in suitable streams, including those emptying into the pools formed by the Conowingo, Holtwood and Safe Harbor Dams.

Pennsylvania will expand its program later with similar transfers attempted from the Octoraro River below the Chester - Octoraro dam, and from the Delaware River and several of its tributaries.

According to Dr. Albert Hazzard, assistant executive director, it is hoped that upwards to 200,000 elvers will be transferred within the next few weeks. It is planned to place them up the main stream as far as Danville, and to Williamsport on the East Branch of the Susquehanna.

Additional Plantings

Additional plantings in the Juniata as far upstream as above the Raystown Dam are contemplated. Dr. Hazzard explained that despite the natural tendency of the elver to move upstream, transporting them is being undertaken to assure that the maximum number will reach up river points.

"If we just put them above the barriers represented by the lower Susquehanna dams, predation as they move upstream by the river's bass, pickerel and walleyes, would be so great that few would survive to reach up river points." Hazzard said.

The interstate portion of the program is the result of earlier conferences between representatives of the Pennsylvania and Maryland Commissions, which will see the Pennsylvania Fish Commission furnish the Maryland agency with an equal number of walleye fingerling for planting in the Susquehanna River below the Conowingo pool.

Marsh Impoundments

Eleven small marsh impoundments, built by the Pennsylvania Game Commission and providing a total of 103.5 acres of water, have been completed, the agency's Land Management Division reports.

Four other dams, which will impound 55.5 additional acres as resting, feeding and nesting areas for wild waterfowl are about 50 percent complete. Surveys and plans have been made for 17 other sites approved by the Commission. These will impound an additional 262.4 acres of water.

At the present time operators of two bulldozers are cutting flood spillways for the two Mosquito Creek dams on State Game Lands No. 34, Clearfield County. It is expected that by the time this project is completed the ground will be sufficiently dry to build the embankments and finish these two ponds. The last three dams on Meade Run, McKean County, will then be completed, as will the one on Mohan Run, State Game Lands No. 44, Elk County.

If conditions and time permit, the impoundment on Jones Run, State Game Lands No. 2, Warren County, will then be built. Of the other dams approved by the Commission, all but the one in Erie County will be located on State Game Lands No. 2, Warford County.

Plans and specifications for the Siegel Marsh Dam, which will be located on State Game Lands No. 218, Erie County, have been completed and approved by the State Department of Property and Supplies. Bids for the construction of this impoundment were opened May 1, 1957. An award to the low bidder will be made immediately.

Late Waterfowl—

Waterfowl hunters and wildlife people in Pennsylvania have conjectured on the later-than-usual northward migration of Canada geese this spring. The Stroudsburg Record reported, April 29, that approximately 400 of the honkers attracted considerable attention, the day before, when they landed near Big Rock on Broadheads Creek.

The Record noted that most persons enjoyed the unusual treat, some of them "shooting" the large game birds with camera. But, it was also said, some out-of-season hunters seized the opportunity to actually shoot the resting geese. Guns were used along the Broadheads and elsewhere in Monroe County to permanently stop some of the potential breeders.

Game Protector John Doebling reported there was enough of this illegal shooting to keep him "on the double." Doebling said he apprehended a number of the lawbreakers and warned: "Shooting waterfowl in close season is both a state and federal offense. The federal charge carries a $500 fine."

Curran and Indof to Battle For Supervisor Post Tuesday

Harry Curran, incumbent, is being opposed by John Indof in the race for township road supervisor on the Democratic ticket in Tuesday's primary election.

Lloyd Markle is the lone Republican seeking the position.

Three candidates are in the running for the two openings on the School Board. Incumbents Sam Weightman and Peter Backstrom have opposition from T. A. Vitale.

Only one Republican, William Smith, is in the field.

The other offices in the township are uncontested. For auditor, Mary Anderson is the Democratic candidate and James Patterson the Republican aspirant.

J. J. Donley, Democrat, is seeking reelection as tax collector. The GOP candidate is George Kuma.

Christian Group Discusses Bible School Plans

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Concord Methodist Church met recently at the home of Mrs. Kay Yoder. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Mary Lee McBeth. Goldie Daumit spoke on "We Give Because We Love" and Henrietta Snyder read a poem in keeping with this theme. Prayer was offered by Annetta Snyder.

The Rev. Anna Potter discussed plans for a Summer Vacation Bible School with the dates to be decided later.

In keeping with Mother's Day, awards were given to the following mothers. Mrs. Mary Lee McBeth, the mother with the youngest child; Mrs. Delores Brown, the youngest mother; and Mrs. Stella Timmes, the oldest mother.

The other members of the class present included Esther Budd, June Cupples, Ruth Snyder, Thelma Saylor and Florence McKito. Pauline and Ruth Hamilton and Mattie Smith were guests.

The meeting was closed with the benediction, after which lunch was served by Mrs. Yoder.

Economics Group To Meet Tonight

The Rostraver 4-H Home Economics girls will meet at the home of Mrs. John Byers, leader, tonight.

Members are urged to bring dress material and patterns. Courtesy count booklets should also be brought.

The date for the beginning of the Daily Vacation Bible School sponsored by Pricedale Union Church is Monday, June 3. It had been previously announced for June 14.

Round and Square Dance Saturday By Lebanon PTA

The regular monthly meeting of the Lebanon Parent-Teacher Association was opened by the President Robert Ammon. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Robert Ammon in the absence of the regular secretary. The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Rose Hughes.

Ammon reported on a square dance to be held Saturday at 8 p. m. at the new Rostraver Junior High School. A candy and bake sale by the P. T. A. will be held during this affair.

Mrs. Jane Mahew, the new southern area vice president of Westmoreland County, was in charge of the installation of new officers for the next school year. Officers installed included Andrew Solan, president; Mrs. Delores Ebberts, vice president; Mrs. Dorothy Naylor, recording secretary; Mrs Helen Lynch, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Rose Hughes, treasurer.

Following the installation of officers, Solan, the new president, presided over the rest of the meeting. A gold leaf award was presented to the P. T. A. from the County for having attained the membership goal previously set. Solan also reported on a workshop he had attended at Hempfield Area High on May 4. Mrs. Mayhew discussed several area meetings that were to be attended. The newly elected officers were chosen as delegates to these meetings.

Mrs. Stark is to receive an award for having won the attendance banner the most number of times this year.

The guest speaker, Alex Rutherford, spoke on "Safety." Lunch was served.

Decision for Devil

NEW YORK (UP)—At least one person made a decision for the devil Wednesday night when evangelist Billy Graham opened his crusade at Madison Square Garden. Professional photographer Ben Mancuso said a Speed Graphic, a reflex camera and a tripod were stolen from him when his attention was momentarily diverted.

G. Sidney Klass, held.

Dr. Harold Trimble, killed.

REVENGE KILLING — Police in Oakland, Calif., arrested G. Sidney Klass, (top), 53, in the revenge killing of Dr. Harold G. Trimble, (below) nationally known chest specialist, who was shot to death on a street. A cab driver saw the shooting and, using his two-way radio, followed Klass' car and kept police informed of its whereabouts till they halted Klass 11 minutes after the killing.

Nuclear Power Plant to Cost U. S. $70 Million

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Atomic Energy Commission's most recently published cost estimate for the experimental nuclear power plant at Shippingport, Pa., is 70 million dollars.

This does not include research and development costs of about 45 million dollars to date.

The 70 million dollar estimate was published last February during congressional hearings. Before construction was started on the plant, which is expected to begin operating in December, the AEC estimated the reactor plant would cost $37,750,000 and the turbo-generator 10 million dollars.

The revised estimates reported in February were 55 million dollars for the reactor plant and 15 million dollars for the turbo-generator. The AEC said this 70 million dollar estimate is being continually reviewed and is subject to change.

The National Coal Association, commenting today on the February estimate, charged that the facts about atomic power costs "have been concealed for years" by the AEC.

In reporting the new estimates to the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, the AEC cited cost rises in fabrication of the reactor core, manufacture of stainless steel components, labor and building materials, and many items of special equipment.

Kinzua Dam Is 'Must', Allegheny County Witnesses Tell at Hearing

WASHINGTON (UP) — Pennsylvania witnesses testified at a House hearing Wednesday that a proposed dam and reservoir at Kinzua, Pa., is a "must" for effective flood control on the Allegheny River.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) told a House Appropriations subcommittee it was "incredible" that after 20 years Congress is "still holding hearings on this key reservoir."

Rep. Leon H. Gavin (R-Pa.) said the dam is the "key to the whole flood control program" in the Allegheny Valley and would be a "wise and sound investment of the American taxpayers' dollars."

Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh said the Kinzua project is "absolutely vital" to protect his city from the seasonal threat of floods. He said further delay in starting on construction of the project involves a "serious risk."

The subcommittee's hearings are in connection with a proposed budget appropriation of one million dollars for the start of construction. The estimated cost of the project is 100 million dollars.

Lawrence also said further delay would block industrial expansion in the Allegheny Valley for lack of assurance of flood protection.

Sherman P. Voorhees, executive director of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, said the government actually would save money in the long run by starting construction now. Further delay, he said, eventually would force the government to put up more money for emergency flood aid than the project would cost.

Both Gavin and Maurice K. Goddard, Pennsylvania secretary of forests and waters, challenged claims of the dam's opponents that other flood control projects could be built at less cost.

Goddard said a series of small dams, suggested by some opponents, would cost more to get the same results.

The Seneca Indians, whose reservation lands in New York would be flooded, have proposed a canal to divert flood waters into Lake Erie.

Gavin said he could not understand "how any river that is flowing south could be diverted to flow north."

Since 1938, he said, 10 flood control reservoirs have been built in the upper Ohio basin and those of its tributaries. But Kinzua is the key to this whole flood control program, he added.

Senate Okays Bill Regulating Rifles

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Senate Tuesday unanimously approved and sent to the House legislation regulating the sale and use of air rifles, a measure previously defeated.

The amended version of the bill eliminates authorization of the use of air rifles at target ranges and by members of armed services and veterans organizations. Otherwise the bill was unchanged, prohibiting the sale of rifles to minors and authorizing their use by minors only when accompanied by an adult.

Expect Light State Primary Vote

HARRISBURG (UP) — Both major parties today attempted to stir up voter interest in Tuesday's primary contests for thousands of municipal and county offices in a move to strengthen grass - roots support for the statewide campaigns next year

No statewide offices are at stake in the 1957 elections and the turnout for the primary is expected to be comparatively light More than five million Pennsylvanians are eligible to cast party ballots.

The state Elections Bureau reported that more than 4 816,000 persons were eligible to vote in 65 counties, with Republicans having 2 555 731 on the rolls and Democrats 2 816 474 The bureau had not received registration figures from the populous counties of Lackawanna and Montgomery

Tuesday's voting will decide major party candidates for office in many localities throughout the state including mayoralties, judgeships, borough, township, city and county posts and school boards

Highlighting the local contests will be the bids of Democratic mayors David L Lawrence of Pittsburgh and James T. Hanlon of Scranton for fourth terms and the return to the political wars of former Republican Gov John S Fine in Luzerne County

Renews Feud

Fine, who has been practicing law since he left the Executive Mansion in January, 1955, is seeking to return to a seat on Luzerne County Common Pleas Court, thus renewing a feud with the county GOP faction headed by former state Sen T Newell Wood, whose candidates won control of the county two years ago

In addition to Pittsburgh and Scranton, party choices will be determined for mayoralties in these 21 third class cities

Beaver Falls Bethlehem, Butler, Clairton, Connellsville, Corry, Duquesne, Franklin, Greensburg, Hazleton, Jeannette Lancaster, McKeesport Meadville, Monessen Nanticoke, New Kensington, Pittston, Pottsville, Shamokin and Sunbury.

The only special election Tuesday will be in Montour County to fill the seat in the state House of Representatives of the late John R Quigg, Danville Republican who died of a heart attack last December before he could be sworn into office for the current legislative session

A total of 59 communities in 27 counties will have local option elections on the beer and liquor questions Twenty - seven of the communities will vote on the sale of both liquor and beer, 24 on only liquor, three on liquor and beer distributor licenses two on beer and three on only beer distributor licenses

GOP Plans for Short Session of Legislature Appear to Be Fading

HARRISBURG (UP) — Republican plans for a short, business-like session of the Legislature appeared to be fading today

For the second time within the past 10 days, Republican leaders in the House postponed introduction of the general appropriation bills—the sign which traditionally marks the beginning of the end of the sessions

Introduction of the bills, which the GOP leadership has promised will cut Gov. George M Leader's budget by 100 million dollars, originally had been scheduled for early this week The first postponement called for their appearance on the legislative scene today. But Republican leaders said that introduction of the measures will not come until next Wednesday after the lawmakers return following the primary.

The postponement made it virtually certain that the House has agreed with the Senate that the General Assembly will not be able to quit before June 15—if then

Although the unveiling of the GOP budget is slated for next week, there is a possibility the general public will learn earlier what cuts the Republican leaders plan in the administration's budget They hinted that the disclosures might be made before the end of this week

Meanwhile, the two legislative chambers continued Wednesday to grind away at a mass of proposals

A proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the Department of Internal Affairs went down to defeat in the Senate aided by the negative votes of two of the bill's sponsors

Withdraw Support

Sen John C Miller (D-Beaver) originator of the proposal, had been joined in his sponsorship by Sens Jo Hays (D-Centre) and Miles R Derk (D-Lycoming) But on the final vote both Hays and Derk voted 'no' The bill failed of passage by a 19 20 vote with six Republicans joining 14 Democrats in opposition to the proposal

During the debate and balloting Secretary of Internal Affairs Genevieve Blatt sat in the rear of the chamber.

Hays said he co-sponsored the measure because he was under the impression that abolition of the department was a plank in the 1954 state Democratic program He said he learned later that it was not and this led him to withdraw his support

Miller, who offered an amendment which would also have eliminated the office of state treasurer contended the state could save several millions of dollars a biennium if the department were abolished and its duties tranferred to other departments

With the end of the current biennium in sight May 31 and appropriation bills still tied up in committee, legislative leaders moved to insure against the possibility of certain departments not having sufficient funds to finance operation until they receive their appropriation

Stop-gap appropriations of 50 million dollars for state government operations and 15 million dollars for public assistance were introduced in the House with bipartisan support

Senate Approves Referendum for Third Class Cities

HARRISBURG (UP)—Legislation to give the state's 47 third class cities a choice of three types of municipal government moved to the House today with the unanimous approval of the Senate

The bill would permit cities through a referendum, to pick two types of mayor council government or a manager-council type

The first, known as the "weak mayor" type and the most common at present establishes the mayor with the same power as each councilman, and with a councilman at the head of each city department

The "strong mayor" type empowers the mayor to carry out all the decisions and ordinances of the council

The third plan provides for the hiring of a professional city manager to implement the decisions of the council.

Changes in city government would have to be approved by a referendum and charter commissions would be established by citizen vote to study the adoption of one of the plans

The measure was sponsored by the Local Government Commission of the Legislature and endorsed by the Pennsylvania League of Cities.

Doctor Is Guilty of Slaying

LEWISTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Dr. Samuel L. Woodhouse Jr., 52, Milroy, today faced the prospect of a life prison term following his conviction of first degree murder in the rifle slaying of his foster daughter nearly four years ago.

A Mifflin County jury of 11 men and one woman returned the guilty verdict with a recommendation of life imprisonment late Wednesday after deliberating over four hours. Defense attorney Paul E. Fetterolf was given four days by Judge Paul S. Lehman in which to file an appeal.

Court officers and spectators in the jammed gallery were heard to gasp when the jury verdict was read to the court. Dr. Woodhouse was visibly shaken and was lead from the courtroom crying bitterly after the jury was polled.

The physician was accused of slaying his foster daughter, Elizabeth, 16, on Aug. 6, 1953. Fetterolf relied primarily on the testimony of prominent psychiatrists to support the contention that Woodhouse was insane when he committed the crime. The physician recently was released from Harrisburg State Hospital as fully recovered.

Jury Had Choice

The jury had a choice of returning a verdict of guilty of first or second degree murder, voluntary manslaughter, not guilty or not guilty by reason of insanity. District Attorney R. Lee Ziegler sought a conviction of first degree murder on the ground the slaying was a premeditated act.

The Commonwealth case was based largely on a 4-page statement made by Dr. Woodhouse to the state police and the testimony of state police officers who investigated the crime. Dr. Woodhouse admitted the slaying in his statement and said he planned it for about a year because the girl was ill and unhappy.

Authorities said the physician showed no remorse for the crime, worked in his garden after the slaying and treated two patients while the girl lay dead in the house.

Can't Take Four Sons To the Soviet Union

CHICAGO (UP)—A family court judge has refused to let a Russian couple take their four sons to the Soviet Union.

Judge John H. Clayton Jr. acted Wednesday after a custody hearing involving the sons of George Kozmin, 54, and his wife, Nabejda, 35. He arranged, however, for the parents to have a trial reunion with their children this summer.

The children, wards of the court, are Richard, 10, George Jr., 8, Paul, , and Peter, 10 months. Richard and George are in the Central Baptist Children's Home, Lake Villa, Ill., while Paul has been placed in a foster home and Peter is living with his parents.

The Kozmins, former slave laborers in Russia, came to this country from a German displaced persons camp in 1950. Their three oldest sons were born in the German camp while Peter was born in Chicago.

Both parents were committed to the Chicago State Hospital as mental patients. Mrs. Kozmin was released as cured but Kozmin received a conditional release.

Assistant State's Attorney Benjamin Novoselsky said Kozmin was unable to care for his sons and that, therefore, the youngsters should remain wards of the court.

Fedor Solomatin, chief of the Russian Embassy's consular division, said his country would provide transportation to Russia for all the Kozmins and arrange for their care in Moscow, where they have relatives.

Ekberg, Brynner Take Over Show

CANNES, France (UP)—A bosomy actress and a scowling gentleman with a completely bald head stole the spotlight from Russia Wednesday at the film festival. Shouts by photographers of "This Way, Please, Mr. Brynner!" and "Miss Ekberg, let's have more frontage, please," greeted the "stars" when they arrived for the showing of the Soviet film "Don Quixote." The man with the shaved head and the bosomy girl with the startling decolletage evening dress were treated as royal personages. It was not until after the showing, which no one paid very much attention to, that officials admitted they didn't know who the two celebrities were.

Tanker, Freighter Reportedly Collide

SUEZ, Egypt (UP)—The Norwegian tanker Vespasian and the Yugoslav vessel Drina collided outside Suez today. First reports said damage was slight.

Lloyds Shipping Registry lists the Vespasian as a 12,86-ton tanker. The Yugoslav vessel is listed as a 60-ton freighter.

Chemical Explosions At Atomic Center

UPTON, N.Y. (UP)—Investigators today sought the cause of a series of chemical explosions that injured four workmen, one critically, at the Brookhaven National Laboratory, one of the nations main atomic research centers.

Six rescuers were overcome by acid vapors but did not require hospital treatment.

Officials at the research center said the explosions Wednesday — the first such accident in the laboratorys 10-year history — involved highly corrosive acids but no radioactive material.

Ironically, the blasts, which appeared to have done only minor damage, occurred as 200 nuclear scientists were sitting down in a nearby building to a lecture on "Radiological Hazards And Safety." The scientists, from the United States and Latin America, were unaware of the accident.

Although none of the injuries involved nuclear radiation, the laboratory in which the blasts took place contained highly radioactive materials, according to a spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission which administers and finances the research center, situated on the former site of Camp Upton, 60 miles from New York City.

Thirty-five persons were in the so-called "hot" laboratory building when the explosions occurred within a steel testing chamber. Only 12, however, were in that section of the laboratory affected by the blasts. All quickly fled the building.

The most seriously injured was Richard Johnson, 30, of Baldwin, N.Y., who had been standing closest to the equipment. He received severe burns on his face, including his eyes, and on the upper part of the body.

Local Murphy Manager Will Attend Reunion

F. H. Miller, manager of the local G. C. Murphy Company store, will attend the 17th annual reunion of veteran employes of the company Monday at Penn-Sheraton Hotel, Pittsburgh.

The organization known as the Murphy Veterans club was organized in 1940 and is made up of employes who have completed 15 years or more of continuous service. The total membership now excedes 1,213. Of these, 151 are new 15 year members who are to be initiated into the club and they will receive a pen, a certificate of award and will advance into the four week pay vacation plan.

Veterans not eligible to attend the meeting are sharing equally in the distribution of company stock.

The program will begin with a welcome message from the 1957 club president, G. W. Falk, who is maintenance department Manager in the home office in McKeesport. The initation of entertainment and an evening banquet. At the evening banquet, both W. C. Shaw, Chairman of the Board, and J. S. Mack, President of the G. C. Murphy Company, will speak briefly.

Describes Mine Conversion into Underground Plan

CLEVELAND (UP) — Russell W. Hunt, president of Southwest Lime Co., Neosho, Mo., described to visitors at the 1957 coal show here today an old limestone mine converted into a modern subterranean factory in Missouri.

"The subterranean factory has an underground railroad dock capable of handling 15 freight cars at a time," he said. "It covers 400,000 square feet of space and is divided into six rooms, each separated by eight-inch reinforced concrete walls and fire doors."

Hunt said the factory has an air and light system, a water supply, and a fire sprinkler system.

"In this atomic age, such a radiation proof area can be profitable to the businessman and also a contribution to national security," he pointed out.

The modern trend in mining was pointed up by other speakers.

Glenn B. Southard, mechanization engineer of the American Mining Congress, said miners in many states today "have to pass a test just to go underground into a coal mine."

He said the cost of modern mining equipment was a factor in the increased training of miners.

Weather for Next 30 Days

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook:

The period from mid-May to mid-June calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals over most of the nation, except for above normal in the Northwest and extreme Southeast.

This marks a major reversal from the unseasonable warmth which has prevailed over the eastern half of the country during the past 30 days.

Precipitation is expected to equal or exceed normal over most areas, except for subnormal amounts along the West Coast and in the northern tier of states westward from the Great Lakes.

Literary Club In Meeting at Methodist Church

The Mimirian Literary Club was entertained by Mrs. E. C. Phillips and Mrs. Irene Allen at a luncheon session on Saturday instead of the regular Tuesday evening session.

The luncheon was served in the social rooms of the Methodist church and Spring flowers were used in the decorations of the church.

Mrs. Robert Croushore presented the program in keeping with the study of Pittsburgh and used as her topic, "Progress of Learning". She discussed the high schools and colleges in Pittsburgh.

A gift was presented to Miss Lois Gemmill, who with her sister, Ann and brother, Dr. John Gemmill will move to Florida to make their future home.

On May 25th the club will mark its silver anniversary with a luncheon at Century Inn.

Girls Plan for Camping Trip

Fairhope Brownie Troop 10 met on Tuesday afternoon in the Marion Presbyterian Church and made plans for a weekend camping trip. It will be held May 31 to June 2 at Laurel Hill State Park.

A list of needed items and permission slips will be distributed to the girls at the next meeting.

There was an outdoor play period. Pam DePaolo conducted the opening and Paulette Zelchak led the closing.

Mrs. Elsie Adamec, leader and Mrs. Peg DePaolo, president of the Triad Leaders Club, were present.

Legion Auxiliary To Meet Tomorrow

The Ladies Auxiliary to the American Legion Post 659 will meet on Friday evening in the Legion Home. Members are permitted to bring guests since a Mother's Day party will feature the social hour.

The Pan American committee headed by Mrs. Adelmina Schmidt will be in charge of the program and Mrs. Incz Lehew will have charge of the business session.

The hostess committee will be headed by Mrs. Emma Jarvis and Mrs. Alice Ventura.

Mrs. Earl Cramer, of State St., is ill at her home.

Baptist Church Congregation Meeting Held on Tuesday

The annual congregational meeting was held in the First Baptist Church on Tuesday evening with the Rev. James C. Puz, church pastor, as moderator.

Routine reports were given and then officers for the coming year were elected. The Rev. Mr. Puz was renamed moderator.

Elected as deacons were Caeser Barney, Robert Burkhart, Charles Stark, Walter Pierotti, Mario Pesi, Bill Van Divner, and Ralph Sickles. Trustees named were Aldo Bandini, James McClain, A. J. Burkhart, John Brandon, Earl Smith, John Hanchin and Frank Farquhar.

Deaconesses chosen were Mrs. Boyce, Mrs. D. W. Moran, Mrs. Mario Pesi and Mrs. Bertha Headley; ushers, Aldo Bandini, James Burrows, Tom Lancaster, Francis Barney and Glenn Sickles.

Mrs. James Van Divner was elected church clerk with Mrs. Bertha McClain as assistant; Wilbur Wallace, treasurer; Mrs. Wilbur Wallace, financial secretary; Mrs. Wesley Goviet, assistant financial secretary.

The auditing committee will include William Manown, Garmon Longenecker and John Brandon. Mrs. Govier was elected organist with Raymond Kimball, assistant. Mrs. Glenn Kimball, pianist with Kathryn Lehew, assistant.

Frances Barney and James Van-Divner will have charge of poster publicity and Mrs. Puz for newspaper publicity.

The following Sunday School officers were approved, Fred Trich, superintendent; Joe Wells, assistant; William Manown, secretary; Elaine Manown, assistant; Mrs. Fred Trich, treasurer; Alice Steinmiller, librarian; Sandra Brandon, assistant. Mrs. Wilbur Wallace will be Primary department superintendent; Mrs. James McClain, cradle roll; Mrs. Harriet Neil, home department with Mrs. Barbara Daugherty, assistant; Raymond Kimball, pianist and Neville VanBremen, assistant.

Mrs. Garmon Longenecker gave the annual report for the Missionary Society, Mrs. Trich for the Sunday School and Dorcas Class, Mrs. Bertha McClain for the E.M. Class instead of Bess McClain; Mrs. Pierotti for the Maranatha and Mrs. Joseph Keracik for the King's Daughter's Class.

The pastor outlined his activities for last year. Special recognition was paid Mrs. Barbara Daugherty, who is a patient in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital and who served as church clerk last year. A vote of thanks was extended the retiring officers.

A new pulpit Bible was presented to the church by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stark.

King's Daughters Class in Annual Banquet Here

A Mother-Daughter banquet was held recently by the King's Daughters Class of the First Baptist Church in the church social rooms. Spring flowers in miniature wheelbarrows were used as table decorations and favors.

After the dinner a program was presented. The class sang the welcomd song and the devotions were in charge of June River, who also read a poem entitled, "Mother's Day."

A trio Elizabeth Keracik, Mona Sichi and Evelyn Biddle sang "Memories of Mother" accompanied by Elizabeth Keracik. Several of the girls formed a band and pantomimed Eh Compate. Irene West gave a reading, "When Mother Sews on Buttons".

Jane Manown as Ralph Edwards gave a comedy version of the life of Kay Hanchin, class president. Nellie Nichols gave the history of the class. Isabelle Kyle impersonated Kate Smith singing, "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain". Lavina McClain gave a reading entitled "Mother". Stella Shosky as Kay Neumann gave a cooking lesson and Minnie Burkhart pantomimed to the "Mama Doll Song".

Gifts were then presented to Eula Zundel, youngest mother and Elizabeth Scott, oldest mother.

The program concluded with the group singing, "What A Friend We Have in Jesus" and Mona Sichi gave a Mother's Day prayer.

On Friday evening the class will meet at the home of Elizabeth Keracik.

Lloyd Githens New President Of Lions Club

Lloyd Githens, who has served in many capacities since the organization of the Belle Vernon Lions Club, was elected president at a meeting held on Tuesday evening in the social rooms of the First Christian Church.

The election followed the serving of dinner by the women of the church and the other officers elected were Sam Jones, first vice president; Ray McClintock, second vice president; Ernest Como, second vice president; Dave Scholl, treasurer; Thomas Chapman, secretary; James Price, financial secretary; Bill Venneri, tail twister; Perry Schwartz, assistant tail twister; Harold Ringstad, lion tamer and two directors, W. S. Jones and Charles Berkhouse.

Retiring president Maynard Jesick was in charge and Bill Mascara led in the group singing. Silla Valdiserri was in charge of the flag salute and Dave Scholl offered invocation. There were 4 members present. Plans were made for the installation of officers on June 18 at the Charleroi Elks Club.

At the next regular club meeting the Rotarians will be guests.

Other officers installed included Mrs. Clifford Dickson, first vice president; Mrs. Steve Ruby, second vice president; Mrs. Clyde Lear, recording secretary; Mrs. Louis Swartz, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Thomas Flanigan, treasurer.

Mrs. C. R. McConnell, a past president, was the installing officer.

The retiring president, Miss Elizabeth Roley, presided and the women joined in the pledge to the flag. Invocation was by Mrs. Reed Carson. Spring flowers decorated the tables and covers were laid for 39 members. Miss Roley extended the welcome and announced that the Westmoreland County Federatiin will sponsor a theatre party at the White Barn, on May 31, to benfit the mentally retarded children the county.

Miss Roley also announced the annual County Picnic to be held at Bushy Run State Park on June 20.

When Mrs. Bierwirth took charge of the meeting she announced the annual brunch, which will be held on June 25 and the place will be announced. Mrs. Thomas Chapman and Mrs. John Owen will be the chairmen for this affair.

In behalf of the club members Mrs. James Hassen presented Miss Roley with a crystal candelabra. Both Miss Roley and Mrs. Bierwirth were presented with corsages.

Cards were played and awards were won by Mrs. Robert Lange, Mrs. Flanigan and Mrs. Hassen, contract; Mrs. Zelinda Sabatini a Mrs. Nash Jarvis, five hundred.

The party was arranged by Mrs. Ruby, Mrs. Swartz, Mrs. George Ventura, Mrs. Mylo Culler, Mrs. Arlie Culler, Mrs. Paul Nicoden, Mrs. McConnell and Mrs. Robert Forsythe.

Traffic Controls To Be Enforced On Election Day

Belle Vernon Burgess William Venneri announced today that traffic controls have been announced for next Tuesday, Election Day, in the borough.

Venneri stated that there will be one way traffic on Water St. between Second and Third on that date in order that congestion around the polls can be reduced. Traffic will be permitted to move in a northern direction only.

In addition parking between Second and Third Sts. on Water St. will not be permitted on Election Day on the west or railroad side of the street.

Burgess Venneri announced this plan in order that voters may more easily and safely go to the polls.

Young Ladies Class Holds Mother-Daughter Banquet

The Young Ladies Class of the Fayette City Christian Church observed Mother's Day with a dinner at the Fayette City Methodist Church Friday evening. Fifty two mothers and daughters were present.

The Class president, Mrs. George Guseman, presented the toastmaster, Mrs. Vera McCurdy. The invocation was by the teacher, Mrs. Bertha Roberts. Following the dinner and group singing, a program, tributes to mothers, was held.

A vocal trio, Joan Guseman, Nancy Lynn and Ruth Jones, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Robert Jones, sang. A reading was given by Margarite Chambless, of Charleroi.

Corsages were presented to Mrs. Bowers, the mother of the church pastor, John Bowers; the oldest mother present and to Mrs. Charlotte Theakston, the youngest. Each mother and daughter was presented with a plant. The decorations for the affair were carried out in pink and white.

Guest speaker was Betnel Lutz, librarian from Charleroi. She told of her recent trip to Europe.

The meeting will open with devotions in charge of Mrs. Wesley Hines. Mrs. George Moody will preside at the business meeting. Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Anna May Coates are hostesses.

Methodist Class Will Hold Dinner

The J. C. Class of the Methodist Church School will hold a covered dish dinner at the home of its president, Mrs. Frank Devers tomorrow evening.

The affair will begin at 6:30 and the regular worship and business meeting will follow.

Scout Council Plans for Camp Activities Here

The Fayette City area council of Girl Scout workers met Tuesday evening in the scout rooms of the Legion Home.

Mrs. Jane Moody was in charge of the session at which plans for the weekend camp, June 7, 8 and 9 were discussed. Mrs. Clifford Carlson, Jr. is camp chairman.

The weekend will be spent by the Seniors, Intermediates and Brownies at Camp Mahogany, Laurel State Park. Leaders, committee members and mothers will set up a camp program of Scouting activities that will include working on merit badges, promoting cooperation in work and play, nature hikes and fun.

The camp will be operated by the committee with the assistance of the mothers as counselors.

Plans were also discussed for the week of day camp by Area Council at Monessen City Park. Reservations for the day camp must be in by May 30. The week of June 17, is for Senior and Intermediate Scouts and the week of the 24 for Brownies.

A report of the sale of cookies by all of the Scout troops was given by the cookie chairman, Mrs. Frank Rihtarcik.

Meter Loot High

NEW YORK (UP)—The pennyante bandits who steal coins from parking meters apparently hit the jackpot last year. Traffic Commissioner T. T. Wiley said about $25,000 was stolen from parking meters during 1956.

National Geographic Tells Truth on Frogs

WASHINGTON (UP)—The National Geographic Society came out today with a confidential expose on the bedroom habits of frogs.

The hush-hush facts turned out to be far worse than many frog haters believed.

The usually staid Georgraphic Society apparently felt compelled to disclose the wanton truth because of the caroling of a crowd of suburban Washington frogs in Brentwood, Md.

Eighty-three-year-old Mrs. Mary Harman complained several weeks ago to Brentwood Mayor William H. Smith that the frogs in a neighbor's pond were "disorderly and carrying on" every night until midnight. The mayor—clearly a romantic — said the liked frogs.

However, the Geographic Society made clear in its expose that Mrs. Harman had something to complain about.

It said each species of bov frog uses a distinctive mating call during the springtime to attract the girl frogs of the same species. It noted that frogs are very particular about what species they date.

"Some calls resemble the sounds of quacking ducks, barking dogs, bleating goats, whooping Indians or a regiment of men beating tin pans," it said.

Of course, the society said, this goes on until the boys and girls get together.

But that's not all.

The society said night-prowling researchers armed with tape recorders have reported four other types of frog noises besides the mating call. It described them as the "warning chirp, warning vibration, fright scream and rain song."

"The last is a singing-in-the-shower type of thing apparently just for fun," it said.

The society said spooning frogs have been accused of lots of things including keeping a Missouri farmer's hogs slim.

"Every time that blamed bullfrog gives out with a bellow the pigs think it's someone calling them to eat," the farmer said. "They're running all the fat off their bones answering his call."

On the other hand, the society said, many people agree with Mayor Smith.

Not Flying Saucers

ALBERT, France (UP) — This peaceful community got its second flying saucer scare in recent days Wednesday night when a frightened farmer spied a strange shape in a pasture, complete with bright lights and explosions. The local constabulary, alerted by telephone, struggled into uniform, strapped on pistols and rushed to the scene. The "saucer" turned out to be a string of firecrackers a practical joker had tied to a fence.

More Delay in Nuclear Tests

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP) —American scientists waited impatiently today for the weather to improve so they can explode with safety the first nuclear device of an unusually long series of tests.

Unfavorable winds caused by a last-minute change in weather conditions led the Atomic Energy Commission to postpone for 24 hours the detonation of a nuclear device atop a 500-foot tower which had been scheduled for today.

The AEC explained that winds would have carried radioactive particles in dangerous quantities south of the firing area, sprinkling them upon newspapermen, the scientists themselves and military observers, including those from 13 NATO nations gathered to witness the tests.

Lightning Bolt Kills One Boy; Others Injured

JONESBORO, Tenn. (UP) — A lightning bolt cracked across a baseball field during a high school game Wednesday, killing a 15-year-old player and injuring five others.

Michael Watson, 15, a member of the Lamar, Tenn., high school team, died soon after he was struck. Of the five injured, one was kept at Johnson City Memorial Hospital for treatment of burns on both legs. The others were treated and released, including umpire Warren Miller, 35.

Witnesses said a "horizontal bolt" of lightning swept across the field in the top of the seventh inning. It toppled the pitcher, four infielders and the umpire to the ground like "ten pins," a spectator said.

The game, between Lamar and Boone's Creek high schools was "being rushed along" because of threatening weather when the lightning struck.

Local Students Join National Honor Society

Seventeen Junior and Senior students from Perry-Lower Tyrone High School were initiated into the National Honor Society last Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium.

It was the third such annual affair, and was in charge of Robert White, High School principal and Jacqueline Angelo, secretary of the Society.

After the processional, the welcome address was given by Georgiana McClellan, president of the group.

The requisites of the Society were presented by Stephen Stolarik, character; Donna Ross, leadership; Andrea Karpel, scholarship and Jane Wolfe, service.

Guest speaker, Lucy Valero, president of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, spoke on the four Society characteristics and pointed out that "character" is of supreme importance in our lives. She also stressed the necessity of getting the best education possible during High School days. She said that many countries in the world are using America as their example in setting a pattern for their way of life, and that education is a direct point of contact for world peace.

Miss Valero also talked about the World Conference of Education in Manila, which she attended last year, and cited educational conditions in other countries.

National Honor Society pins were presented by G. E. Hibbs, to the following: James Blair, Ruth Carnes, Ellsworth Cottom, Marilyn Duff, Patricia Fest, Helen Gohoski, Allegra Hamm, Martha Haut, Ellen Husar, Carol Kershey, Linda Lynch, Shirley Ann Masch, David Olinzock, Joan Pierotti, Thomas Pilarcik, Brenda Shumar and Thomas Sickle.

Libby Lee Hough, Barbara Fields and Suzanne Davis offered a vocal selection, "My Task". Accompanists were Jeanne Donaldson and Miss Hough. The audience joined in singing the Alma Mater, and the recessional followed.

Active members of the society are Jacqueline Angelo, Nancy Gohoski, Andrea Karpel, Georgia McClellan, Leonard Rabatin, Janet Rimel, Donna Ross, Bernadette Sotak, Stephen Stolarik and Jane Wolfe.

A buffet style luncheon followed the program for the guests, parents of the members, members and the school faculty.

Luncheon appointments were in pastel colors. The centerpiece was a spring floral arrangement, flanked with tall lighted tapers.

Present as honored guest was George Dumbauld, County superintendent of schools.

Battle on in Perry Township

Six Democrats will battle next Tuesday to be nominated to the two positions on the Democratic ticket for school director in Perry Township.

They are Peter Rebotini, Thomas Havadich, J. R. Polander, S. W. Rider, Ted Welling, S. J. Migrock. There are no Republican candidates.

One other contest is scheduled for the Republican nomination for justice of the peace between Primo Tonozzi and Henry Molcan. W. J. Radisajec is the lone Democratic candidate.

Only one candidate for each party will be proposed for the road supervisor vacancy. Gino Ugolini is a Democrat and Ezra S. Pike, the Republican.

First Communion Is Observed Here

First Holy Communion was observed at St. John's Roman Catholic Church in Perryopolis last Sunday with the Rev. John Stofcik officating.

Nineteen received communion. A breakfast followed, served by the Altar Society of the Church.

Steel Market Gets 'Slight Lift' Today

NEW YORK (UP) — The steel market got a "slight lift" this week from hedge buying against expected higher prices in July, Iron Age said today.

The authoritative trade magazine said although such buying doesn't amount to much as yet "some users seem more inclined to stock up before the July price boost than they were several months ago."

The reason said Iron Age is that mills are thinking in terms of a price boost comparable with last year's average $8.50 a ton.

(Last week C. M. White, chairman of Republic Steel Corp., third largest producer, said a price boost "considerably in excess" of $8.50 a ton will be "justified" this summer.)

Meanwhile, Iron Age said, several mills have noted a pick-up in demand for hot-rolled sheet with some of the business coming from auto companies.

Auto producers say their orders do not reflect better business but are moves to plug gaps in inventories, the metalworking magazine said.

"There are hopeful signs that other steel users may be contributing to the price hedge pick-up in the same way—by maintaining their inventories at present levels rather than continuing their policy of cutbacks," Iron Age pointed out.

Thus May is shaping up as a critical month for the industry, Iron Age said. If price hedge buying gains momentum, ingot production will not drop so much as had been expected. But if users decide that it's cheaper in the long run to hold down inventories, the demand will be slow.

Iron Age also commented on the declining zinc price and said customers are getting a break because the zinc extra on galvanized sheet has been reduced. Zinc prices fell ½-cent a pound Tuesday and 1⅛ cents last week—the first changes in 16 months.

Senate Okays 'Country Club' Liquor Measure

HARRISBURG (UP)—The House today received Senate - approved legislation to create a special "country club" liquor license without quota restrictions.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. John H. Dent (D-Westmoreland), would permit unrestricted issuance of club licenses to establishments where the licensing privilege "will be clearly incidental to the function and operation of the club."

"The one major flaw in the quota provisions is the discrimination against certain racial groups in that they lack the opportunity to become members of existing country clubs and are restricted in the opportunity to establish country clubs of their own within the quota," the bill said.

'Made in Japan' Label Reported As High Class

WASHINGTON (UP)—That old label "Made in Japan" has gone high class.

Before the war, the "Made in Japan" label usually was found on cheap imitations of more costly toys, Christmas tree ornaments and jewelry that flooded the American market.

But a Commerce Department official said today that since the end of World War II the Japanese have turned to selling almost exclusively high quality products in the United States.

Items topping the list are photographic equipment, optical products and objets d'art.

At a recent international photographic exhibit here, Japanese camera makers showed up with impressive written testimonials from some of America's best-known photographers.

Its old Axis partner Germany still holds the lead in camera sales in this country. But the Japanese are making increasing inroads, particularly in the medium priced field.

A Commerce Department trade delegation has reported that there is a "real potential" for two-way trade between this country and Japan, once the Asiatic nation catches on two ways to tap the U.S. market.

Your Food Problem—

Dressing Has Unusual Salad Flavor

By EDITH M. BARBER

"What's the difference between Roquefort cheese and blue?" Several readers have asked this question. One or two have mentioned that they could not distinguish between these.

Edith Barber

Just don't let any Frenchman from the Roquefort section hear this comment! In France, only the cheese made in the Roquefort section and from ewe's milk is allowed to use this name. In other parts of France, and in other countries, cheese with much the same flavor must be called bleu. In this country the English spelling, blue, is used.

French Roquefort is so fine that it should be reserved for dessert, to be eaten with crackers or French bread, perhaps with fruit. For a salad dressing known as "Roquefort," blue cheese is generally used, although the original recipe called for the cheese that gives it this name.

This dressing probably originated in this country and it was once a mark of distinction or good taste to serve it or order it for a meal. The latter is still true, as the individual flavor makes an interesting salad. Often, only salad greens are used, but the addition of other vegetables such as cucumbers or beets is common.

BLUE CHEESE TOSSED SALAD

¼ cup salad oil
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon onion salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
½ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 3 ounces)
2 cups torn chicory
1 cup torn lettuce
1 cup torn escarole
2 medium tomatoes, cut in wedges
1 cup radish roses

Combine salad oil, vinegar, sugar, onion salt and celery salt. Beat or shake well. Combine cheese with remaining ingredients and toss lightly. Chill. Combine dressing and greens mixture and toss lightly but thoroughly. Season with salt and pepper. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

BLUE CHEESE BEET SALAD

½ cup French dressing
1 clove garlic, cut in half
2 tablespoons chopped chives
2 cups torn escarole
1 cup chopped cooked or canned beets
1 medium cucumber, chopped
1 cup grated radishes
½ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 3 ounces)
Salt and pepper to taste

Combine dressing, garlic and chives. Let stand 30 minutes. Remove garlic. Combine dressing mixture with remaining ingredients. Toss lightly but thoroughly. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Only the Himalaya mountains of Asia are higher than the peaks of the Andes.

BLUE CHEESE gives a delectable tang and vigorous flavor to salad dressings. Make your own special blue dressing or add that crumbled cheese to a French dressing.

Good Foods Are Included In Best Diets

The favorite conversation piece is diet! Of course, reducing is the subject to which almost everyone is willing to contribute, but it has a number of competitors nowadays.

The prevention of high blood pressure by a food regimen and the various arterial diseases are topics upon which amateur experts are always ready to make themselves heard. One of the myths in this category is that garlic lowers blood pressure. Fortunately, there is no real evidence this is the case any more than there is that raw onions prevent colds. As someone has mentioned, garlic on the breath will keep annoying people away so that they will not raise blood pressure.

There is a whole school which believes fats cause artery diseases. When this condition exists, it is always wise to reduce weight, so this theory may have some merit, but it is doubtful whether it will prevent the deposit of cholesterol in the arteries. Salt and meat are also blamed for high blood pressure. The avoidance of salt will not prevent the rise of blood pressure, although it is helpful when the condition exists.

Meat is blameless, and is a very important protein food. Other fallacies not so common today but still with exponents are: that mixing foods is dangerous, that vegetable juices are more nutritious than the vegetables themselves and that cooking in aluminum pans is harmful.

There are other fables in regard to food. Unless one has some condition in regard to which a physician should be consulted, there is no reason for embarking on any diet that avoids any good food.

BROILED SAVORY STEAK

Rub steak on both sides with peeled clove of garlic before broiling. If a higher flavor is desired, insert small slivers of garlic into steak instead of rubbing the steak. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Pineapple Serves as A Spring Treat

Fresh pineapple is always a spring treat. As much as people like fruit in canned form and find it such a convenience to have on hand, some are ready to take time to prepare the fresh fruit for the short season it is in market.

Most of this comes from the West Indies, and the fruit does not grow as large nor as sweet as the Hawaiian type, which is the source of canned products. In choosing a fresh pineapple, test a frond — one of those "leaves" that grow out of the top — to see if it pulls out easily. That is better than punching. As the fruit peddler is said to remark, "If you must punch, puncha da coconut," that can't be harmed.

The fruit should be kept at room temperature, not in the refrigerator. The easiest way to prepare it is to cut it into thick slices, to pare these and then remove the eyes. To shred, begin at the center portion with a sharp knife and cut toward the edge. The shredded fruit should be placed in a bowl and sprinkled liberally with sugar that should be allowed to melt and mix in again at room temperature. If you like chilled fruit for the table, it may be placed in the refrigerator afterwards.

Pineapple and grapefruit or oranges combine well. Or, instead, you may like to add a little mint flavoring, a bit of sherry, rum or brandy. We seldom use fresh pineapple for a cooked dessert; for this the canned product is really better and much easier to use.

PINEAPPLE MALLO

1 cup shredded sweetened pineapple
1 pint hulled strawberries
8 marshmallows

Combine pineapple with berries. Cut marshmallows into quarters and add. Add more sugar, if needed, and chill. Serve in sherbet glasses. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

PINEAPPLE MINT CUP

Combine sweetened shredded pineapple with grapefruit sections. Serve in sherbet glasses topped with chopped mint or with cubes of mint jelly.

QUICK MEAL

Browned corned beef hash; Asparagus on toast. Mushroom sauce; Salad bowl; Shredded pineapple; Coffee.

ORDER OF PREPARATION

Shred and sweeten pineapple; open can or cans of hash, brown slowly in heavy skillet; prepare salad and dressing; trim asparagus and cook; make mushroom sauce; make toast; make coffee.

Meringue Shell Is Basis of Angel Pie

Several readers have recently asked for recipes for angel pie. Perhaps because it is the beginning of the strawberry season, this fruit was mentioned in connection with the requests. Other fruits may be used.

The foundation of an angel pie is a meringue shell. This means that the egg whites, with the cream of tartar that will help to solidify them during the baking, must be thoroughly beaten. This will take but a few moments with an electric beater and not too long with a strong hand-beater. The sugar must be added gradually while beating continuously until the mixture is still enough to stand up in peaks.

The next step is to spread the meringue on the bottom and sides of a nine-inch piepan. There are two schools of thought about whether the pan should be greased or not. Results are the same if the baking is done in a very slow oven and this will take about an hour.

The filling is made with the egg yolks, fruit juice, sugar and softened gelatine. It must then be chilled until thickened slightly, after which the crushed berries are folded in. Usually, the meringue shell is spread with some whipped cream before the filling is added. Sometimes the cream is used only for the topping.

—TASTY RECIPES—

STRAWBERRY ANGEL PIE

4 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
1½ cups sugar
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
4 egg yolks
½ cup strawberry juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1½ cups crushed strawberries
½ to 1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Beat egg whites and cream of tartar until foamy. Add 1 cup sugar gradually, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating constantly until stiff and glossy. Spread on bottom and sides of greased 9-inch piepan. Bake in very slow oven (275 degrees F.) 1 hour or until lightly browned and crisp. Cool.

FILLING

Soften gelatine in cold water. Beat egg yolks slightly. Add strawberry juice, lemon juice and remaining cup sugar and mix. Stir over boiling water until thickened. Add gelatine mixture and stir until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in strawberries. Spread half the whipped cream in bottom of meringue shell. Top with strawberry mixture and remaining cream. Chill thoroughly.

APPLE HORSERADISH SAUCE

½ cup heavy cream
4 tablespoons prepared horseradish
½ cup applesauce
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
Dash of paprika

Whip cream and fold in horseradish, applesauce and seasonings. Serve with fish or cold meat. One tablespoon chopped blanched almonds may be added, if desired. Sour cream may be substituted for sweet cream. Yield: ¾ cup sauce.

New Stamp Issue to Observe Steel Birthday

On Thursday, May 23, U S po offices will begin selling a commemorative postage stamp whic honors the 100th anniversary of th steel industry in America

The new three-cent issue will g on sale at 38 000 post offices following the first-day sale at th New York City's general post office on Wednesday May 22

As the design for the new stamp postal officials have selected a eagle with outspread wings to represent America and a pourin, ladle, long the symbol of the stee industry Across the upper quar ter of the blue stamp are the words "America and Steel — Growing Together"

The selection of that phase is appropriate For since the invention of the revolutionary pneumatic steelmaking process by William Kelly and Henry Bessemer a century ago, the growth of America and that of the steel industry have paralleled one another

The year 1857 was one of opportunity for a new industry. Our country's population was 30,000,000 and soaring with each decade. Manufacturing and construction were booming so fast that tools and small machines were at a premium. The growing network of railroads had just under 4,000 miles of track built out of brittle iron rails Then, with steel suddenly abundant and cheap, new industries came into being — industries which were to transform almost every aspect of American life

Through the years that followed the Kelly-Bessemer invention the steel industry became a major contributor to our nation's growth In 1870 American steel industry production was less than a third of Englands Two decades later America became the world's greatest steel producer — a status never relinquished.

A succession of industrial achievements such as the open hearth and electric furnace processes, the continuous rolling mill and the electrolytic tinning line have meant increased and more efficient steel production The result has been an ever widening range of commodities which have constantly increased our living standards

Today, with our nation experiencing its greatest industrial boom, more and more steel is needed and the steel industry is meeting the challenge. Now engaged in the greatest peacetime expansion program in its history, the steel industry is looking forward to its continued participation in America's growth

SLAPS SUIT ON MAGAZINE — Movie actress Maureen O'Hara and pianist Liberace chat before going into a Los Angeles grand jury room to testify against Confidential magazine Liberace filed a $25 million libel suit against the magazine and Miss O'Hara charged that a story about her in a recent issue was a "complete lie"

Pleads Guilty to Check Forgeries

GREENSBURG Pa (UP) — Robert F Fritz Jr, Greensburg pleaded guilty to three charges of check forgery today

Judge Edward G Bauer placed Fritz under a suspended sentence of 15 years and directed him to make restitution

Latrobe Police Chief Chester College and Greensburg Constable Daniel Fry said Fritz passed a $55 check Feb 6 on a Latrobe resident and checks of $10 and $20 in Greensburg on Jan 17 and 19

A wife-beating charge resulted in a five year suspended sentence against Albert C Adams, Latrobe RD 4

Atomic Age Has Its Own Rubbish Collector

By JAMES S GEGGIS

BOSTON (UP) — George C Perry is the only rubbish collector in America who carries a geiger counter. His job is dumping radioactive waste material

Perry operates from a 65-foot converted mine tender affectionately known as the "Irene Mae" The cargo she carries makes her hotter than Little Egypt

The 50-year-old former deep sea diver dumps the world's most dangerous material in waters known only to military officials and the Atomic Energy Commission His company, the Crossroads Marine Disposal Corp, is the only one licensed by the AEC to do the job Its customers atomic industrial plants and labs, are scattered across the country

Making Good Living

Perry was making a good living in the salvage business in 1946 when a government representative asked him to do a special job

"I didn't know it then" Perry recalls "but that was the first time radioactive material was ever dumped at sea I didn't ask any questions but the next time I wanted to know what we were doing"

Perry was told and then asked if he wanted to keep the job despite the hazards involved

"I thought it over," he said and decided the atomic energy business was here to stay From then on, I concentrated on learning everything I could about radiation"

Business has been so good that Perry is having a hard time keeping up with expansion He has ordered more ships and men trained in handling radioactive substance

"It isn't as hazardous as it sounds" Perry said "The stuff comes here from points as far distant as Seattle and Houston under strict Interstate Commerce Commission regulations

Encased in Steel

"The dumping is done under precisely controlled conditions and the contaminated material is encased in steel barrels with a thick cement shield"

After each trip Perry and his crews test their clothes and equipment with a geiger counter to determine whether they have been exposed to radiation So far, there has been only an insignificant amount

Long lived isotopes notably Strongium - 90 and Cesium-137 have a slow rate of decay and are dangerous for months even years But oceanographers believe that waste dropped in ocean waters is reasonably safe They estimate about 1 000 years for water at deep levels to rise to the surface

House Receives Erie Port Bill

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state House of Representatives today received Senate-approved legislation which would free a $1,750,000 state grant to Erie for port development which had been tied to a 1955 port study.

A bill sponsored by Sens C Arthur Blass (R-Erie) and John H. Dent (D-Westmoreland) would eliminate allocation of the funds for "the general purpose identified in stage 1 in the engineering study.. titled 'Port of Erie Study, November, 1955'"

The amendment to the appropriation act, approved last June, would consign the funds for "the general purposes of improvement of the harbor in accordance with plans approved by the Port Commission of the City of Erie, the city council and the state forests and waters secretary"

ANNOUNCEMENTS

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Eleanor Kwolek, who died 22 years ago today, May 16, 1935
Deep down in our hearts there's a picture
More precious than silver or gold
It's a picture of you, our dear one
Whose memory will never grow old
Treasured thoughts of you dear
Often bring a silent tear.
Thoughts return to scenes long past,
Time goes on, but memories last
Sadly missed by Parents and Brother

Asks PUC to Up Fares on Buses

HARRISBURG (UP) — Patsy Petro, Uniontown, today asked the Public Utility Commission to authorize a 5-cent increase in cash fares for bus service furnished between Uniontown and South Union Twp., effective June 16.

Under the new rate schedule fares would be raised from 10 to 15 cents, which would yield an estimated $1,900 additional annual revenue, which the firm said is needed to meet increased operating costs

Don't Use Dry Ice To 'Air Condition' Cars, Chemists Warn

NEW YORK (UP) — A growing American custom of "air-conditioning" the family sedan on hot summer days with cooling "dry ice" may be the unsuspected cause of many accidents and should be stopped.

This warning comes from chemists who are amazed by the public's lack of respect for carbon dioxide, which is a gas.

Solidified carbon dioxide is "dry ice" or carbon dioxide "snow." When solidified, carbon dioxide slowly returns to gaseous form lates in a closed space in which there are people, it will first "intoxicate" the people and then kill them.

An extreme case built out of a series of coincidences has been reported to medical sources by a Missouri doctor. It is attracting attention in chemical circles because it shows what can happen and what may have happened in less extreme form many times.

Car's Heater Going

The patient of Dr. A. L. Walter of Sedalia loaded 60 gallons of ice cream packed in cartons with 100 pounds of solidified carbon dioxide into the back compartment of his sedan. It was a cold day. The windows were closed and the car's heater was going.

Fifteen minutes after stowing the cargo, the man got into the car and drove eight blocks. Picking up his mother, he drove seven or eight blocks farther, then cried out that he couldn't breathe, steered to the curb, and collapsed over the steering wheel.

The mother went for Walter, fortunately leaving the door open. Walter arrived in 10 minutes and found the man fully recovered and insisting he was all right. The man drove the solidified carbon-dioxide ice cream ladened car eight blocks farther to his home where Walter examined him more thoroughly and found nothing amiss.

Meanwhile, the car was at the curb, all windows shut and the carbon dioxide still changing from a solid to a gas. After half an hour, the mother drove off in the car. After eight blocks she began to yawn and then lost consciousness and the car ran off the road.

Taken To Hospital

She was taken to a hospital and a policeman got into the car. He noticed that when he started the engine and the heater began functioning, the car filled at once with a vapor. He suspected carbon monoxide from a leaky exhaust. Mechanics could find no leak. Finally, someone noticed the ice cream cartons and the gasifying carbon dioxide solids.

In reporting the near-tragedy, Walter raised the question of how many automobile accidents have been caused, all unknowing, by the "side effects of carbon dioside intoxication." People who cool cars with solidified carbon dioxide keep all the windows closed, he pointed out.

Standard authorities hold that a closed atmosphere containing as little as 10 per cent carbon dioxide can make people unconscious, and a higher concentration will produce death by suffocation.

duce death by suffociation.

Dandy Summer to Pack TV Set Away

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — This looks like a dandy summer to pack your TV set in mothballs.

TV programming hits the skids starting next month with many live shows dropping off and most filmed shows switching to re-runs. What the trade calls "summer replacements" — a euphemism for programs too unsturdy for regular season showing—will fill in.

There are a few items of hot weather interest. Vic Damone will stand in for Arthur Godfrey on the redhead's Wednesday CBS-TV night hour and Julius La Rosa will lean in for NBC-TV's Perry Como.

Fred Waring will substitute briefly for Garry Moore on his CBS-TV morning show and evangelist Billy Graham will step into a Sunday night hour on ABC-TV for at least four weeks.

Wanted! An Emcee

NBC is talking about a live variety show for Tennessee Ernie Ford this summer, but hasn't settled on an emcee yet. And NBC-TV also is plotting three spectaculars in the Sid Caesar Saturday night spot for three successive weeks beginning June 1 — "Four Stars For Spring," a Jerry Lewis spec and "Galaxy of Stars."

You also can count on seeing Steve Allen and Ed Sullivan through the summer along with "The $64,000 Question," "The $64,000 Challenge" and "Twenty One." Such drama entries as "Kraft Theatre," "U. S. Steel," "Climax," "Alcoa - Goodyear Playhouse," Lux Video," and a summer version of 'Studio One" will continue.

Other live shows set for summer showing are both Lawrence Welk entires, "Circus Time," the Mike Wallace and Ted Mack programs and "Ozark Jubilee" on ABC-TV. On NBC-TV — "Arthur Murray Party," Nat Cole and "Wide Wide World." On CBS-TV — "I've Got A Secret," "What's My Line," "Two For The Money," "Talent Scouts" and "Name That Tune."

"Pantomime Quiz," a veteran summertime fill-in, will take over Ed Murrow's "person to person" slot.

Filmed shows will swamp the networks with re-runs. "Playhouse 90" will re-spot the filmed shows it used this past winter. Also at CBS-TV, they're planning to re-screen old shows of "Oh Susanna," "Robin Hood," "Zane Grey Theatre," "Gunsmoke," G. E. Theatre," "Private Secretary," "The Phil Silvers Show," "Burns and Allen," "The Bob Cummings Show" "Sgt. Preston of the Yukon" and "Alfred Hitchcock Presents."

List Of Re-Runs

NBC-TV will use re-runs of "Circus Boy," "Sir Lancelot," "Father Knows Best," "This Is Your Life," "Dragnet," "The People's Choice," "Blondie," 'On Trial," 'Life of Riley" and Groucho Marx's "You Bet Your Life." NBC-TV also will alternate re-runs of "Project 20" with "Wide Wide World."

ABC's re-runs include "Crossroads," "Wire Service," "Conflict," "Cheyenne," "Wyatt Earp," "Broken Arrow" and "Navy Log."

There will be some new filmed replacements—"The Web," "Meet McGraw" and "George Sanders Mystery Theatre" and "Adventure Theatre" on NBC-TV.

CBS will unveil "Richard Diamond," "SRO Playhouse" and "Those Whiting Girls."

All in all, it's shaping up as a pretty good summer to catch up on your reading.

Lightning Strikes Near Apollo Home

APOLLO, Pa. (UP)—A bolt of lightning struck near the home of Mrs. Clara Kepple Tuesday night. The thought that she had been struck — as occurred two years ago—sent Mrs. Kepple into a state of shock.

Firemen were summoned to administer oxygen to revive her.

Your Health—

Apathy Is Cancer's Very Powerful Ally

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Our tendency to minimize and ignore definite but mild symptoms, is one of cancer's most powerful allies.

Like most types of this dread disease, cancer of the digestive tract is usually painless in the early stages.

Since the symptoms are so light and confusing, the average person often feels that they just aren't worth bothering about.

As a result, unfortunately, many victims don't seek treatment until it is too late. Malignant tumors in the digestive tract cause nearly half of all cancer deaths. Yet, if treated in time, a number of the victims can be cured.

For this reason, it is important that everyone, especially men over 40, consult a physician quickly upon any indication of trouble, no matter how slight.

The American Cancer Society advises that you be especially alert for any of the following symptoms:

1 — A slight difficulty or stick-ing sensation upon swallowing food: a sensation of fullness or heaviness behind the chest bone.

2 — Indigestion or a vague uneasiness in the stomach after eating a normal meal; distaste for certain foods, particularly meat; stomach ulcer pains that do not clear up rapidly under a diet prescribed by your doctor. Onset of persistent indigestion after the age of 40 may be especially serious.

3 — A vague feeling of lassitude, fatigue, or anemia which is marked by a deficiency of red blood cells. Such a deficiency probably will make your skin a pale color.

4 — Changes in bowel movements or habits, either diarrhea or constipation.

5 — Loss of weight.

One more word of caution. Remember that indigestion and bleeding are the main signs of cancer of the digestive tract. If you have either for more than a few days, see your doctor.

Britain Holds Reports On Nuclear Testings

LONDON (UP)—Britain held up a detailed report today on its first hydrogen bomb test until observers confirm the dispersal of its deadly radioactive fallout. Japanese scientists indicated it was one of the biggest explosions yet.

The government hoped to give a formal report to Parliament this afternoon on the blast that put Britain in the thermonuclear power ranks with Russia and the United States.

The bomb, dropped from a plane somewhere in the Pacific Ocean near Christmas Island Wednesday, touched off protests and demonstrations in Japan. Fears were expressed in Tokyo for the safety of Japanese fishermen reported to be in the central Pacific.

British planes, ships and meteorological stations in the vicinity of Christmas Island watched for any change in the "ideal weather" that would upset plans that the radioactive fallout never reach inhabited land.

Detailed Account Delayed

Informed sources said that until the danger was past there would be no more details on the blast.

Tokyo weathermen said their instruments recorded atmospheric disturbances "at least as heavy" as those caused by U.S. H-bomb tests at Bikini.

This indicated the British explosion was much bigger than any fired by the United States since Christmas Island is roughly 4,000 miles from Tokyo — twice as far as Bikini.

One-hundred flag-waving Japanese university students scuffled with police while trying to force their way into the compound at the British Embassy in Tokyo to present protest petitions.

In the wake of the first official announcement, this much was known about the test:

—The first H-bomb worked.

—The five airmen who dropped it from a four-jet supersonic Valiant bomber of the Royal Air Force got back okay.

—There will be more tests but the number remains a secret.

A Long Drop

The government said the bomb —which it termed a "nuclear device"—was dropped from a high altitude. Various British papers reported it was dropped from 8-10 miles up set to explode 2-3 miles above the sea.

Announcement of the explosion came three weeks before the British public had expected it.

More than 1,000 scientists, airmen, sailors and soldiers had worked more than a year at the mid-Pacific atoll getting ready for the current series.

The drop climaxed a two-year "crash" program set in motion in 1955 by former Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden. Its success means Britain can go ahead with its plans for a modern, streamlined armed force geared to an atomic age strategy.

Ride into Past

CHICAGO (UP) — A nostalgic symbol of the horse 'n buggy days sits proudly amidst the parking meters that line the curbs of Chicago's North Side — a bright red hitching post.

INDICT EX-FBI — Former FBI agent John Joseph Frank (above) is under federal indictment in Washington on charge of serving as an agent of the Dominican Republic without registering. Frank was an FBI man from 1941 to 1949, and now is a New Britain, Conn., attorney. A grand jury is investigating disappearance of Gerald Murphy, an American pilot, and Jesus T. Degalindez, Columbia University professor who has been highly critical of Dominican President Trujillo.

Guests for Supper

CHICAGO (UP) — Robert Murphy has turned the other cheek to the rabbit kingdom. For weeks, Murphy said, everything that sprouted in his backyard garden was promptly nipped up by a family of rabbits. Murphy Wednesday took them into his house, to the delight of his daughter, Donna Lynne, 3. "I'd rather feed them a little milk," he said, "than have them eat up my whole garden."

Criticism Against America Heard by Tourists

By CLAIRE COX

LONDON (UP)—A horde of more than 700,000 Americans are looking forward to trips to Europe this year—but is Europe looking forward to them?

The Italians and French both treat the American tourist as a child—the Italians as their own, the French as someone else's.

Both advertise widely for visits by Americans. Both say they are glad to see Americans. But while the Italians smile when they take your dollars, the French just take them.

The British don't drink tea too much any more. These days they down American-style coffee and criticize the United States.

British streets and highways are traveled by Britons in American style automobiles. London shops feature styles fresh from Fifth Avenue. There is an American style soda fountain at Shakespeare's birthplace at Stratford.

Britons Are Candid

But Britons make it quite clear that while they may buy American, they don't have to be pro-American.

The Swiss are pleased at the change of a greater income from tourists than watches. The West Germans are glad Americans feel more free to visit their country and they hope for a revival of the friendly exchanges of post World War I days.

But some Swiss are angry at the U.S. for its higher tariffs on Swiss watch movements and its decision not to back the British-French invasion of Suez.

Some West Germans resent American "efficiency" and dislike Yankees because of the presence of the U.S. Army in Germany 12 years after the war.

These are impressions gained after two months' motoring through Britain and the continent. My husband and I came to Europe with no preconceived ideas of what we would find. We just packed our bags—and our money—and came.

Chances Are Slim

Our impressons came only from dealing with persons who live off the tourist business. A tourist's chances of meeting someone other than a cab driver, a waiter, a tourist guide or a chambermaid are slim indeed.

One day a hotel waiter in Preston, England, tells you, "All the world radiates from America these days."

The next you hear a British woman declare, "No one in the world likes Americans any more."

"We don't care whether we get your dollars or not," said a shopkeeper when an American complained that he was not getting a fair exchange for his traveler's check.

Our visit to Britain began with a rocky voyage across the English Channel from France. During that storm-tossed ride I sat fighting off seasickness and was a captive audience for an English woman's attack on Americans.

Didn't Like Yanks

"Americans aren't liked anywhere," she said. "They are going to have to find a solution to the Middle East . . . the Americans didn't do any real ground fighting in World War II. They sent planes to flatten everything and then moved troops in with little fighting. . ."

We heard some French criticism of American policies and a Paris cab driver charged us $8 for a $1 ride without batting an eye. But a French government travel bureau official said, "I guess we can be angry at the United States without being angry at all Americans."
